BUCHANAN, Mich., Aug. 25.—Jack Knight, veteran air mail pilot, flying through the night, won a race against an unseen competitor—death—when he landed here about 7:30 o'clock this morning in what is believed to be the longest single night flight in the history of aviation. Racing from Cheyenne, Wyo., nearly a thousand miles from here, Knight reached home in time to find his aged father, Dr. M. M. Knight, alive.

Handed a telegram last night informing him that his father was seriously ill of bronchial pneumonia, air mail officials gave Pilot Knight permission to make the flight in a postoffice plane, and he hopped off there at 6:02 p. m., mountain time. He covered the stretch to Omaha in four hours and forty-three minutes, arriving there at 11:43 p. m., central time. SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.—Three armed bandits who are believed to have been responsible for a series of four daring hold-ups yesterday afternoon and evening are the objects today of a man hunt, which the police are extending to every section of the city.

It is believed their activities began with the hold-up of the office of the Standard Stevedoring company in the afternoon, when they escaped with $3300. The bandits appeared at the grocery store of August Bose, 2450 Clement street, where at the point of a revolver they robbed Bose of $50.

COMPEL WOMAN TO HOLD UP HANDS.

When they entered the store Mrs. Mary Bloom, 390 Twenty-sixth avenue, was making a purchase. The bandits required her to hold up her hands while they stripped the cash register, but otherwise she was not molested.

Urban said he did not resent it at the time because he had to answer a call. Later on he met the trio at O'Farrell and Taylor streets, and demanded an apology. He said the drunken man rushed at him with a crowbar which he took away from him. A second man picked up the crowbar and Urban took it away from him. The third man attacked him and Urban defeated him, he said. Then Urban returned the crowbar to the first man, got in his taxicab and started to drive away. PARIS, Aug. 25.—A combined infantry, artillery, gas and airplane attack against the Riff positions at Alhucemas proved unsuccessful for the Spanish, according to information from the Moroccan front today. The Spaniards were said to have lost 300 men. The rebel losses were put at 600.

A Tangier despatch reported that the Riffs were advancing toward Tetouan, inflicting heavy casualties upon the Spanish.

Fighting is in progress 25 miles from Tetouan. Abdel Krim, the rebel commander, has cut off communications between Sheshoun and Tetauan. He is preparing to make an effort to capture Tetouan.

LONDON HEARS OF HEAVY SPANISH LOSSES.

LONDON, Aug. 25 (By the Associated Press).—Under Tangier and other date lines, the London newspapers today print reports of the Spanish losses and difficulties in Morocco.

The Daily Express quotes a Riffian communique on the previous fighting before the relief at Tifaruin as saying that the rebels counted 379 Spanish dead, while it took them two days to remove the enemy's wounded. It added that withdrawal of captured supplies would take several days.

Abd-El Krim, the rebel leader, a week ago, summoned 100,000 Riffians to arms, the Daily Express' correspondent continues, and threatened to confiscate the goods and lands of all who disobeyed the call. The French zone and Tangier itself is practically denuded of Riffians in consequence.

Abd-El Krim has issued a manifesto, the despatch adds, declaring that the treaty of Algeciras must go the same way as the treaty of Sevres, for his people are capable of self-government, and, like the Turks, are prepared to prove they are able to support their determination.

CRITICISM CAUSED BY DESPATCHES.

A despatch to the Daily Telegraph from San Sebastian, Spain, says that the latest reports from Morocco by mail have created a very bad impression, arousing criticism of the alleged lack of organization of the Spanish forces, deficiencies is the sanitary services and the shortage of men and material.

LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 25.—The anthracite miners' officials and operators' representatives today received and accepted Governor Pinchot's invitation to meet with him at Harrisburg at noon Monday.

In announcing the miners would accept, Lewis made it clear he did not imply any change in the workers' position.

The acceptance was the first break in the deadlock which has existed since negotiations between the operators and miners were broken off here several days ago.

By KENNETH W. CLARK,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25. — President Coolidge and administration officials today went ahead rapidly with plans for distributing hard coal substitutes to the country in event a strike cannot be averted.

Only the detailed instructions to state leaders, to be issued at the conference of governors in New York next Tuesday, remain unfinished. With this done, a signal from Washington will speed thousands of tons of substitutes to anthracite consuming states.

If a strike comes, and officials are still optimistic that this will not happen, the country, especially the New England states, under the program worked out for a substitute distribution, will be placed on virtual war-time coal status. Bituminous shipments will be supervised by F. R. Wadleigh, federal fuel distributor, and will be rationed strictly according to the needs of the states and individual communities. Storing or hoarding of coal will not be permitted.

The government will endeavor to maintain "reasonable price levels" to stop any profiteering. In this connection, bituminous operators have pledged to the coal commission that they will continue existing market quotations and keep prices at a level satisfactory to the government.

By PAUL R. MALLON,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 25. Telegrams of encouragement from bituminous coal sections poured into union headquarters here today as anthracite mine chiefs proceeded deliberately and methodically to make all arrangements for a strike, starting September 1.

BRITISHER'S ANTI-WILSON TALK SCORED

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Lord Birkeenhead, located at a local hotel, refused to comment on criticism of his address delivered in Williamstown.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Characterizing the references to Woodrow Wilson by Viscount Birkenhead, former chancellor of England, in his address before the Williamstown institute of politics as "impudent," Henry Breckenridge, assistant secretary of war under Wilson, today protested in a letter to H. W. Davis, president of the American Bar Association, against the viscount being permitted to speak at the annual convention.

Breckinridge urged that if it "proved necessary" for Viscount Birkenhead to make the scheduled address it "be intimated to him that the expression of such opinions concerning a great American statesman is distasteful and intolerable to any self-respecting American audience."

JUDGMENT OF WILSON DECLARED WRONG.

The high spot of Viscount Birkenhead's comments of the former President came when in an address in which he developed the theory that self-interest alone and not altruism should determine America's attitude toward European problems, he said:

"And, therefore, while it seems to me that while the name of President Wilson must always berevered by those who render homage to purposes almost superhuman, pursued with a seal almost as superhuman, yet it must none-the-less be recognized that his judgment of his countrymen was wrong and that by the error of that judgment became, paradoxically enough, the agent of all those post-war developments from which his altruse mind would most especially have recalled."

At another point he declared:

"President Wilson, indeed, came with a noble message of hope, but, unhappily, in the sequel hope proved to be his principal equipment.

"BOLD ENOUGH" TO DOUBT RESULTS.

"It is a fascinating speculation whether, had he been given health and strength to pursue the campaign which he contemplated, his idealism and personality could have affected the forces of the world. I am bold enough, even at the moment when I pay the highest tribute to his unselfish motives, to doubt it."

After he had received Breckinridge's letter today, Davis said he had no comment to make at this time.

Viscount Birkenhead is spending the week-end at Saratoga as the guest of Paul D. Cravath, New York lawyer. He planned to go directly from Saratoga to Minneapolis, to speak at the annual meeting of the American Bar Association.

REPARATIONS OR RUHR? QUESTION

Hope of Settlement Is Seen by German Press in Chancellor's Speech.

BERLIN, Aug 25.—(By the Associated Press). — Approval of Chancellor Stresemann's latest expression on the reparation issue is voiced today by the press of all parties. The Nationalist editors lay stress upon the emphatic manner in which the chancellor rejected any compromise with regard to Germany's sovereignty over the Ruhr and the Rhineland, while the Socialist organs think the chancellor displayed a laudable sincerity in dealing with the issue.

Chancellor Stresemann's speech, says the Deutsch Allegemeine Zeitung, organ of Hugo Stinnes, marks distinct progress in that it makes clear to the world the points of difference existing in the way Germany and France look at the question. It goes straight to the crux of the whole issue, says the newspaper—does France want reparations, or the Rhine?

In the present government is Germany's card; it is also the last card in the game Europe is playing, the Socialist Vorwaerts says. The present German government. It declares, has shown a sincere and honorable desire to arrive at an understanding with France, and if the path to a settlement is not found now there is no knowing how much misery and sorrow the peoples of Europe must yet suffer before the inevitable reconciliation.

Germany has spoken, adds the Socialist organ, and France now has the floor.

PARIS, Aug. 25.—(By the Associated Press).—Chancellor Stresemann's address in Berlin yesterday, in which he renewed his predecessor's pledge of material securities for the payment of reparations, has added to the slight, though general optimism felt here over the whole situation."

ALLEGED INSANE MAN IS SET FREE DESPITE EXPERT

Dr. Ball Warns Court That James Lord, Labor Leader, Is Dangerous.

Although Dr. Jau Don Ball of Berkeley, testifying as an expert alienist, declared that James Lord, former prominent mining man and labor leader, was "dangerous and a menace to society and to himself," charges of insanity against Lord were dismissed by Superior Judge George Samuels today on the ground that Dr. Ball's opinion was founded upon hearsay evidence.

Lord, who lives at 547 Arlington avenue, was taken into custody by the Berkeley police yesterday on complaint of his wife, who charged him with insanity, after he had engaged in a fight with a street car conductor because the latter would not let him pay his fare with a check for 6 cents.

At the hearing of the charges today at the Emergency hospital Mrs. Lord declared that her husband recently attacked her without provocation and that he had been suffering from hallucinations that he is the possessor of great wealth.

Her testimony was corroborated in part by Frank C. McDonald, president of the State Building Trades Council, a friend and business associate of Lord.

Lord told Judge Samuels that, during his incarceration in the insane ward of the Emergency hospital, some one had broken a bucket over his head. Warden Charles Emlay, who has charge of the insane ward, testified that, after he had locked Lord in the room, Lord began to "roar like a lion" and dashed the bucket against the door, breaking it himself.

Dr. Ball declared that Lord was suffering from the effects of progressive alcoholism.

"In view of future developments in the case, in the event that Lord is released, I want to put myself on record as saying that he is dangerous, and a menace to society and to himself," Ball said.

MILLS CONVENES FIRST ASSEMBLY OF SEMESTER

Dr. Oswald S. W. McCall Discusses Secret of National Power.

"The secret of national power lies in the way the people are taught to think," Dr. Oswald S. W. McCall told students in Mills College in Lisser Hall yesterday, at the first assembly of the fall semester. An academic procession preceded the Convocation over which President Aurelia Henry Reinhardt presided. Dr. McCall was the principal speaker. He noted the changing mind of the world which brought about the recent international catastrophe, and declared that the most cultured nation had its downfall because it had trained the mind without reckoning with the spirit. He said in part:

"Upon what grounds do we contest our power in America? Do we rely on our traditions? Italy had traditions. Do we rely on the fact that we are a people of vast numbers? Persia had these and perished. Are we confident because of our wealth? Croesus had great wealth. We must rely on more than these. Power is developed by its men and women. All know the achievement of America. We need not big navies, but big men; not gold, but gifted minds. We need to reclaim desert tracts of mind and tunnel in ideas rather than mountains.

The speaker urged that a secular education to be effective and to be worthy must be accompanied by ideals of the spirit and said "Religion is a vital part of all true Education."

NEWS FROM THE HEART of the GOLDEN STATE

SANTA CLARAN NAMES AVIATOR CO-RESPONDENT

Merchant Declares Wife Built Love Cottage in Santa Cruz Mountains.

SAN JOSE, Aug. 25.—Sensational charges and counter-charges flew thick and fast at the hearing yesterday in the application for divorce of Manuel Vargas, wealthy Santa Clara merchant, from his wife, Mrs. Leonore Vargas.

Vargas in his complaint named Roy Fowler, well-known aviator, accusing Mrs. Vargas of having built a cottage high in the Santa Cruz mountains frequented by herself and her men friends.

Yesterday he amplified these charges by accusing Mrs. Vargas of coming home at 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning habitually. He also claimed that she spent days in the company of a 15-year-old boy, taking him for week-end trips, etc.

Mrs. Vargas replied by accusing Vargas of seeking to defame her with her neighbors by taking her automobile out of the garage, driving it around the block in the early morning hours and then coming in with a loud noise, seeking to give the impression that it was she, Mrs. Vargas, who was returning. She stated that she could not get along on the $300 per month temporary alimony granted her and asked that this amount be increased. Judge J. R. Welch took the matter under advisement.

Court Has Lots Of Licenses But Not Right Kind

"You got me wrong, Judge," stated the young fellow, gaining courage. "I want a marriage license. Sell 'em here?"

And then Judge Harder informed the prospective swain that the county clerk's office at Oakland furnished the document but that if they would return he could consummate a nice, quiet little wedding ceremony.

STATE REFUNDS $27,240 EXCESS INHERITANCE TAX

Final Payment of $13,000 Is Delivered to Estate in Solano County.

FAIRFIELD, Aug. 25.—Attorney Joseph M. Rianes, executor of the last will and testament of Margaret Mathews, deceased, has received from the state controller the sum of $13,000 as a final payment on the rebate of $27,240.82 over payment of inheritance tax on the estate several years ago.

Subsequent to the death of the decedent, owing to the fact that it was impossible to ascertain the exact relationship of the many distant relatives in Ireland within the time limit allowed by law for the payment of the tax so that a rebate of 5 per cent could be allowed, the maximum tax was charged to these distant heirs.

Several months later, through depositions, it was established that a closer relationship existed to the deceased with the Irish heirs, making a lesser tax chargeable to them in amount of $27,240.82.

An order of court was made in 1921 to the county treasurer to pay to the executor the amount due, but owing to the law at that time only such moneys as came into the hands of the county treasurer from time to time as inheritance tax payments could be applied upon that amount. Under these circumstances approximately $14,000 was paid back by the county treasurer.

To cover the situation so that heirs of an estate in the same predictament would not have to wait until inheritance taxes from other estates would come in to pay their claim, the last legislature passed a law to the eaffect that such payment could from now on be paid by the state controller from funds on hand.

Christianity is a religion of personality. It is an endeavor to express religion in terms of life. The possibility of discovering God in his own personality is the greatest privilege known to man. Every person is the guardian of a portion of the nature of God, being the captain of his own soul and the master of his fate. A sin against any man is a sin against God.

Uncle Wiggily

by Howard R. Garis

BEDTIME STORY Aug. 25
UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE BUMBLE BEE.

Dr. Possum had been called to the hollow stump bungalow to see Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"I'm not exactly ill," said Uncle Wiggily's muskrat lady housekeeper, "but I can't seem to get to sleep. All night long I lie awake. It is very tiresome."

"If you can't sleep nights—sleep day times," said Uncle Wiggily.

"I've tried, but I can't sleep in the daytime, either," complained Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

Dr. Possum shook his head.

"Then the only thing left for you to do is to get a Bee," he said.

"A Bee!" chied Uncle Wiggily. "Do you mean a honey Bee to sting Nurse Jane to sleep? I think that would make her more wide awake."

"A stinging Bee would," laughed Dr. Possum, "but I don't mean that kind. Did you ever feel drowsy

"Don't sting me on my nose, Mr. Bumble Bee!"

and sleepy in the woods, Uncle Wiggily, listening to the hum of the bees?"

"Many times and often," said Uncle Wiggily. "Why, the hum of Bees almost sends me to sleep thinking of it."

"I feel sure I could sleep if I heard the hum of Bees," said Nurse Jane.

"One large Bee will be enough to hum you to sleep, if you get the right kind," said Dr. Possum.

"How about a Bumble Bee?" asked Mr. Longears. "They are the largest Bees I know of. I'll get Nurse Jane a Bumble Bee."

"Better get her a Shady one, then," suggested Dr. Possum.

"What's a Shady Bumble Bee?" Uncle Wiggily wanted to know.

"The kind that doesn't sting," answered Dr. Possum. "Some call them Humble Bees, instead of Bumble Bees. They are the drones and have no stingers, but the hum of their wings will send Nurse Jane to sleep. Get her a Shady Bumble or a Humble Bee, Uncle Wiggily. The kind that can't sting."

"All right," promised the bunny rabbit gentleman. So away he hopped over the river and through the woods.

In a little while, not so very long, Uncle Wiggily came to a flower bush. Buzzing about it were many small bees, and a large yellow and black fellow, making a booming, humming sound with his big wings.

"Do you sting, Mr. Bumble Bee?" asked the bunny gentleman.

"Why, yes, I can sting," buzzed the Bee. "But why do you want to be stung?"

"Oh, I don't! I don't!" quickly cried Mr. Longears. "I am looking for a Bumble Bee that doesn't sting, so he can sing Nurse Jane to sleep.

Then you must be looking for my cousin, Mr. Shady Humble Bee," buzzed the other insect. "Here he comes now. I'll introduce you!"

So the stinging chap politely buzzed:

"Mr. Shady Humble Bee, meet Uncle Wiggily! Uncle Wiggily, meet Mr. Shady Humble Bee."

"Glad to meet you!" said the rabbit.

"The pleasure is all mine," murmured the Bee.

"And will you come and hum Nurse Jane to sleep?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I shall be most happy to do that," answered the Bee.

So Uncle Wiggily made a little basket of birch bark, and in it he put the Humble Bee to carry to the hollow stump bungalow, as the Shady chap didn't know the way.

When Uncle Wiggily was almost home, out of the bushes jumped the Woozie Wolf.

"I want ears to nibble!" howled the Wolf.

"Let me get at him! Let me sting him!" cried the Humble Bee. And though he couldn't sting at all, the Shady Bee buzzed so angrily around the Wolf's head, making believe he was going to sting, that the Wolf howled:

"Oh, I'll be good! I'll be good! Don't sting me on my nose, Mr. Bumble Bee!" Then the Wolf ran away and the Bee, laughing flew back into the bunny's birch bark basket.

The rabbit took the Shady Humble Bee to the bungalow and there it buzzed and hummed, sweet and low, sending Nurse Jane to sleep. And when she awakened she was all better.

And if the butter doesn't fall off the slice of bread and go roller skating with the sugar bowl, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the peach.

"BLACK GOLD"

A Mystery Detective Story of Alameda County

by GEO. C. HENDERSON

CHAPTER 14.

Gates of Hell.

SYNOPSIS.

Napoleon Knott becomes involved in a treasure hunt for lost gold when Captain Soto Mayor and Felipe Ramon both are attacked and their feet burned to torture them into revealing the secret. Soto Mayor dies and old Felipe crazily rejoices because the secret is now safe. "They'll never make me tell," he declares.

Knott, by a ruse, gets to see Felipe's feet, finds red marks on them, tells Old Felipe Soto Mayor has sent him and induces the recluse to go with him to the Nuevo Mundo. When Old Felipe finds Captain Soto Mayor dead he laughs wildly and declares that his "secret is safe."

Knott tells Inspector Scott, who arrives on the scene, something of what he has discovered. They decide the same thug did up Soto Mayor and attacked Felipe. Two police officers searching the ship unearth shovels, picks, retorts, other treasure hunting tools. They decide the Captain was hunting a gold mine. One of the crew tells that before death Captain Soto Mayor kept motioning toward a statuette until his daughter took it in her hands, and kept saying "oro negro," meaning "black gold." Inspector Scott threatens to arrest Racquel and the crew.

Night comes, revealing Knott, Scott and the officers still on the Nuevo Mundo, awaiting doctor's permission to see Racquel, who is greatly perturbed. Stone conspires with Boogerty to prevent Knott from falling in love with Racquel. The "armored cruiser" Invincible, manned by youngsters from the Dump, playing at naval warfare, is chased away by Inspector Scott as it hovers around the Nuevo Mundo.

A scream coming from Racquel's room startles the men.

Answering the scream, the Inspector, Napoleon Knott and the others enter the girl's stateroom to find Racquel, clothes torn, cowering back in terror, while Boogerty sits astride Old Feline, holding his hands to the floor. Knott consoles Racquel, who tells how the old recluse had entered her room to attack her when the negro interfered. In order to distract Knott's attention from Racquel, Boogerty blows on the police whistle and goes into contortions, as per his agreement with Stone. He says he is "breakin de spell of Venus." Knott begs Racquel to let him be her big daddy. On the floor he finds the broken statuette, with a sheet of onion skin paper protruding from the severed neck. Evidently Old Felipe was after this. It might explain why the Captain was so anxious his daughter should take the statuette. Knott picks it up. Racquel demands its return. Knott argues that it is evidence. They are about to agree when Boogerty again interrupts with his whistling and contortions. Racquel grabs the document. Knott chases the negro out and, returning, finds she has locked the door against him.

Stone reveals that Knott is very susceptible to feminine lure; that he has lost other cases because of this susceptibility, and charges that already the fat detective is crazy about Racquel. Finding it impossible to quiz the girl, Inspector Scott leaves Knott and an officer on guard and goes ashore with Stone, Old Feline and the negro. While Knott is on guard alone, a form sneaks aboard. It is Red Dan, powerful crook boss, Knott's most deadly enemy. He knocks on Racquel's door and presents her with letter of introduction, but Knott by clever strategy prevents him talking with Racquel and orders him off the ship. Red Dan gives Knott until 10 o'clock to leave the city under pain of death.

The police officer says Red Dan is a bad bird to offend. Knott scoffs. Knott has breakfast with Racquel who puzzles him. Knott threatens to tell the police about the statuette paper. She promises to show it to him if he will not. Scott and Stone interrupt them. Scott, Stone and others discuss seriously Red Dan's ultimatum. Scott advises Knott to leave. Scott reveals that Tom Cannon, a taxicab man who buried the man with the big box, has been slain near Livermore. Knott reveals a connection between the Soto Mayor, oro negro footburning crime and the Cannon crook. Knott says, "Find the man who kidnaped Tom Cannon and you'll have the Soto Mayor assassin."

Knott, going to his room via automobile, discovers by a trick that he is being trailed. Much to the disgust of Boogerty and Stone, who think he should either flee or try to attack Red Dan himself, Knott takes a shower, changes his linen and indulges in a hearty breakfast. He orders Stone to kidnap Stella, alias the Toad, take her to a lumber wharf house, divest her of her disguise and lock her up. Knott then prepares for a ride on the lake in his motorboat, taking with him a suitcase, with clothes, hat, overcoat, a bust of General Grant, pillows and a bottle of red ink. Ray Turner, the little blind boy, comes in to report that the gang are out to protect Knott and that Red Dan's men have surrounded his house. He begs Knott not to take a chance.

With the negro's assistance, Knott gets into his launch and goes across the lake, while Boogerty sits on a park bench waiting for him to return.

While Boogerty sits on the park bench, an officer comes up, saying he has been assigned to guard Knott against attack. A big car comes up, a rifle is poked out and shots are fired, hitting Knott as he sits in the launch, bowling him over. The launch, unguided, goes out into the middle of the lake, careens, throwing Knott's unconscious figure into the water where he sinks. Stone comes up in a flivver, decides that Knott has been shot with a rifle with a silencer on it. They find the abandoned launch, covered with blood, where it has beached. Leaving the officer on guard, Stone notifies Inspector's Bureau of the location of the launch, and then he and Boogerty plan revenge.

Stone goes to old Felipe's house, finds it has been ransacked, discovers the goat dying, lifts up the animal, finds the secret document hidden in its hair, finds himself staring into a gun held by a masked man, is kidnapped by a gang and carried off to an underground prison.

The scraggly haired person with the baggy dirty clothes and the obviously false wig, Stella York alias the Toad, dressed as a man, stopped before an iron gate, imbedded in a stone wall and pressed a button.

There was five minutes delay, during which time the visitor was subjected to a scrutiny and then an old, feeble man with a crutch, unlocked the gate and swung it open just wide enough to admit Stella's plump form. He closed it behind her immediately, expectorating a yellow stream of fluid tobacco as he did so.

"Good pickins today, Toad?" queried the old fellow, slyly.

"Mind your business," snarled the husband-killer, hoarsely.

Inside the gate was a wide yard, carpeted with dried grass, pine needles, tall pine trees and a giant Sequoyah. In the yard was an old plum tree, rose bushes trailing the ground, the uncared-for bloom scattered. Palm trees and lilac bushes were thickly interspersed with live oaks. A stately eucalyptus overtopped them all, reaching above the second story of the house.

In this setting stood the great log building, square fronted, two-stories high, the Gates of Hell tavern. The veranda that extended across the whole length was covered with a purple blooming climber, bougainvillia. In this place were easy rustic chairs, with small tables in front of them, the natural grain of the wood stained by the color of wines and scarred by cigarette burns.

Two doors led off this porch, one providing entrance to the dining room and the other marked "Bar," with letters made of twigs, glued together.

The intruder passed through the heavy plank door into the bar room. Here also the picturesque backwoods effect was carried out. The long bar was made of hewn logs, with the bark still on them. Even the mirrors were framed in enormous oblongs made of gnarled eucalyptus.

The bar, the rustic tables along the walls and the billboard tables and green baize card tables, all were deserted at this hour. Denizens of Red Dan's place were just arousing themselves in time for a twelve o'clock breakfast.

The creature threw a coin on the bar, spinning it to attract attention. From a side door emerged a white aproned man, yawning, stretching, rubbing his eyes as if he had been stealing a bit of sleep while on duty. He was tall, heavy barreled, double chinned, with mottled, clean shaven cheeks and a head that started to come to a point but compromised by forming a little knoll, surmounted by bristly blonde hair. He had small blue eyes, great hairy, bare arms and thick, stubby fingers—a typical barkeep.

"The Scraggly Haired Person With the Dirty Clothes Stood Looking At the Prisoner."

The face that he turned on the intruder was expressionless.

"Gimme th' same," snarled Stella, hoarsely.

The bartender glared mildly, plucked a bottle from an inner pocket, shoved a small glass across the bar and poured a drink.

While Stella was drinking, Red Dan came through the swinging doors of the dining room, wiped his mouth with a silk handkerchief, snipped off the end of a cigar and thrust the unlighted weed into the corner of his face.

"Hello Toady, old thing," he saluted. "You should be down at Tenth and Broadway at this hour, coaxing in the shekels of the sympathetic."

"Stemmin' ain't no good today," growled Stella. "Besides the bulls is bound to stage a roundup. There's been a croak pulled."

Red Dan lighted the cigar and held up two fingers at the bartender who took a couple of glasses in one hand and shot them spinning across the bar toward the pair.

"A killing did you say?" asked Dan, incuriously. "Who was it?"

"They bumped off Napoleon Knott."

Red Dan drank the liquor, wiped his lips with the silk handkerchief, blew the stale smoke out of his cigar, relighted it and walked to the other end of the bar where the bullet headed man drowsed.

Apparently he was not in the least interested in the killing of the fat detective.

"Give Toady that tray," he requested of the barkeep. "Here Toad, take this tray of food and come along."

Stella did as required. Dan unlocked heavy rolling doors, admitted the woman and closed them after him. They were now in a heigh ceilinged room. In the center, the floor was waxed while around the sides were many tables. At the far end there was a walled-off space, with the door open, where could be seen men in their shirtsleeves, sitting at tables playing cards. In one corner of the room were roulette wheels while the other was occupied by billiard tables, over the surface of which men were rolling dice.

On the north side was a raised dias, occupied by a piano, chairs and music stands. From one of the adjoining rooms came the noise of a ticker, bringing in the news of the latest horse races, prize fights and other sporting events.

Looking up, the visitor saw cribbike rooms, built on a mezzanine floor around the dance hall. Doors were being opened and windows raised. Occasionally they caught a glimpse of white flesh as a half clad girl scurried from one room to another.

A brunette, bare footed, hair down her back, came to the railing and called to Dan, who waved her away. The bright light of the sun, coming through a window, rested upon her, revealing that she wore nothing but a thin robe, loosely flung over her shoulders.

Dan unlocked another door, admitting them to a windowless room, closed the panel after them and bolted it. In this room was a roll top desk, a few chairs, a filing cabinet, closet and a dirty water cooler that had not been in use for some time. Dan pulled a heavy bolt from the desk and swung it back, disclosing what apparently was a plain floor.

With his knife blade he lifted an irregularly cut trap door, revealing stone stairs. Damp air blew in their faces, carrying with it a musty smell.

The stairs admitted them to a cellar with a rough dirt floor. An electric light tempered the gloom, showing where water seeped through the walls and green moss covered the northern wall. Off one side of this room gathered around a fireplace were a number of men and women. Some distance from the others was the emaciated "Hoppy" Andrews, coughing, expectorating, heating something in a teaspoon over the flame of a match. Besides Andrews, other denizens of the criminal world, wanted by the police, were easily recognizable. The bean pole form of "Slippery Izzy," the dip, reared itself and his long fingers slipped into the pockets of "Buzz" Hewitt, the burglar, and extracted therefrom a package of cigarettes.

"Spotts" McDavitt, Chicago Slim, Slugger Wilson, John Swart alias the "Dod," "Monkey Face," "Shover" Stratton, nationally known counterfeiter, Eddy the Torch, arsonist, the "Nitroglycerin Babies," Bob and Sam Hall, safe blowers—these either snored or drowsed or were trying to rouse themselves from the lethargy induced by late hours and the foul air. On an improvised cot made of boxes, blankets and an overcoat, above this sea of dirty bedding, spittoons, cigarette butts, discarded shoes and odoriferous pedal extremities, reclined the gray haired, distinguished appearing Girard P. Gleeson, confidence man and bunco artist. Near him Lily Haynes, alias Lady Lil, was pulling on her stockings. Remote from the others were two other women, Cynthia McIntosh, who looked like a prim old maid and who was in reality the cleverest confidence woman in America and Genevieve Brown, known as the "Angel," because of her sweet features. The "Angel" was a professional "stall" who were small and turned in, so that when he walked the toe of each shoe meeting almost completed the two sides of a triangle.

His narrow face, with sunken eyes, heavy cheek bones and protruding muzzle was a vivid proclamation of the Darwinian theory. Black stiff hair, covered his head and grew down almost to his eyebrows, while a beard of the same color and texture accentuated the appearance of animality.

It was upon his fingers that the Toad fixed her attention, however. They were long, thin, hairy, with pointed nails like talons and they clenched and unclenched continually with a convulsive movement, as if the owner were longing to bury them in a throat.

"What's the dope, boss?" asked Gorilla, in harsh, discorsant tones.

Red Dan waved his hands toward the Toad.

"Let her in to feed our guest and then come back here," ordered Dan. "I've got an unusually good proposition to make you."

Reaching out his long arm, Gorilla gave Stella York, a shove that sent her running across the room toward a barred door. He unlocked this barrier and ushered the Toad into a room that was so dark, she could see nothing for several minutes. It was a stone cell, with a single ventilator high up near the ceiling. A bench occupied one side of this place and reclining on this was an indistinct form, which resolved itself into a man as it rose.

Gorilla stepped up to the prisoner, who uttered a cry of pain at some minor torture inflicted by the brute.

"Feed this stool pigeon," he snarled. "If he gets fresh, just holler. I'd like an excuse to bump him off."

The beast man struck the handcuffed victim in the face with his fist and laughing, walked out of the room.

The Toad approched and placed the tray on the bench. In the dim light it was easy to recognize the codrovan faced Guy Stone, who stood staring owlishly, hands bound in front of him. When he recognized Stella York, he tried to draw his upper lip down over his protruding teeth, but succeeded only in distorting his countenance and twisting his mouth awry.

The Toad snapped her fingers at the professor.

"Thought you had me, did you?" she grated. "Locked me up in a crazy house! Well you'll get some of your own medicine now. Better hit that chow if you wanna eat."

"It's all Knott's fault," said Stone, dismally. "He wouldn't do a thing I wanted him to. It was his bright idea to kidnap you. If he had followed my advice, Red Dan would be in jail and Knott would be alive instead of at the bottom of the lake. No, that it away. I don't want anything to eat."

The Toad ran to the door, peered out and then hurried back to where the Professor stood, in an attitude of surprise. The creature had a revolver in her fingers from which Stone recoiled. Perhaps this depraved woman was about to kill him.

Stella came close to Stone, the revolver grasped tightly in her fat hand. She thrust it toward him. Stone looked down at the weapon, fascinated with fear.

Then his trepidation turned to surprise and he uttered an involuntary exclamation. The butt of the gun was being pressed into his hands.

Metal grated against the handcuffs and his wrists were free, with the manacles dangling from one arm.

"Hide this rod," came the command, in a familiar voice. "Fix the cuffs so you can pull them off, quickly. I'm watched. The signal for the break will be—"

"Napoleon Knott," gasped Stone, as he lifted his free hands and caught the disguised visitor by the arm. "Why—Wry—you drowned—I thought you were dead—"

"Don't grab," commanded the detective. "Sit down there and eat. The food's all right. You'll need your strength."

Tootles waddled to the door again and peered out. Gorilla was coming toward him, evidently impatient over the delay. Knott ran back to Stone and adjusted the handcuffs, but did not lock them. He left the keys concealed in the professor's clothing, however, so that he could reach it if his hands were again manacled.

"Federal dicks are watching from rear and front," he whispered. "The dump is surrounded. But there's some kind of a retreat down here. If the United States agents break in the front way, these rats sneak out the back way. They've got a launch in a cove on the bay. If you hear a police whistle or firing release yourself and cut off this underground retreat. There's several places you can hide where you could hold off an army of men. Here's a whole box of cartridges."

"How did you escape?" sibilated the astounded prisoner.

A form loomed in the doorway. Knott snatched up the tray, crying out an imprecation against the unfortunate professor and hurried out of the place. Without a word Gorilla locked the door and followed him.

The Failure of Jason Brill

Today's Short Story by Ad Schuster

OLD JASON BRILL spread his bulk on a seat in the elevated, opened his paper and saw red. Here in type which screamed, at least to him, was a story of his financial ruin. The financier's huge hands crumpled the paper while his face grew red with suppressed anger. Then slowly the hands relaxed and a crafty smile as born.

"Let 'em think so. It will make it easier to catch them unawares. As if a wallop like this could put me under." His foot was tapping the floor now while he developed new possibilities. The reputation for being broke could serve a good purpose, in business and—yes, at home.

"All this style stuff, Ma being the fine lady, and Ed going to marry a girl who is after his money this ought to force a show down. Still, maybe I ought to tell Ma."

The news of the failure of Jason Brill was received as momentus in a number of places. At the door of his home Mrs. Brill, smiling bravely, took him by the arm and led him to the library.

"You don't have to say a word about it," she said, "and you don't have to worry about me. It will be fun, won't it, Jason, starting in over again. We never were so happy as when we were trying to make good."

Jason beamed and took her hand. "And Eddie? How's he going to take this? I wonder if that girl will ditch him."

Ed Brill read the story and did some wondering himself. "I'll have to pitch in and help Dad," he said, "and Marjorie will have to wait unless—unless she is willing to marry a poor man." He frowned doubtfully.

In Marjorie Dillon's home a girl tried to close her ears against a storm of complaint. "It is lucky anyway," her mother concluded, "that this happened before it was too late. You will write him a note tonight. Say anything you wish so long as you break the engagement." Then Marjorie was alone.

Since the hems had been let out in her school dresses Marjorie Dillon had understood that her mission was one of capturing a rich husband. The child had accepted the idea casually and, until her engagement to Ed Brill, had never questioned the ethics. When she found herself really caring for the young man and realized how shallow were her mother's pretences to wealth, and for what purposes they were made, she winced in shame. But lately, she had decided to tell Ed of their true situation and to leave it to him. Always there was a tormenting doubt—she wondered just how much she loved Ed for his money.

Now Marjorie smiled through her tears. She loved Ed more than ever and knew that, despite her training, she was not a fortune seeker. Instead of writing a note she telephoned and Ed Brill, wondering and a little frightened, gave up going home to comfort his father to answer her call.

"Ed," said Marjorie, "after she had made her confession, "will you marry me today and go with me to your father. I wish to show him that it is you I love."

"Bully! And we will tell him we are standing by. My job will carry us through and it will be a bungalow, with, maybe, Dad and Mother in another nearby."

Jason Brill heard the news of the marriage and the offers of help. Across the heavy face which some men even called savage there moved a wide and blissful smile.

"Listen," he said gently, "I'm going to take a long vacation with just Ma and you kids can look after the house here until you are settled." He held up his hands to silence them. "I have been plugging along making money until I thought that was all there was in life. Then, a little while ago, I opened my eyes. But not far enough. I discovered I wanted something besides money, but I thought I discovered, too, that I had tied myself hand and foot. Why, I even thought Ma was touched as I had been.

"You know, they nicked me. That's all. Why, in a week I will be back strong enough to offset that loss. I am a long way from being broke, but it would be worth it to fail just to find out the things I've learned."

A little late, Marjorie's mother sent congratulations.

Vacations—
Are but stubborn things—
For pulsing weeks you plan and plan—
Your every future move you scan—
But oftentimes things go awry—
Which brings to hoping hearts a sigh—
And soon you tire—alas—alack—
You're happy when you can come back—
Once on a time not long ago—
I planned to take a week or so—
And go alone out in the wild—
And there to cuddle like a child—
To nature's breast—
And leaving all the world behind—
Take one good rest—
And so I drew up maps and schemes—
I filled long nights with rosy dreams—
I bought a fishing line and pole—
And half decided on a goal—
But next day I would change my mind—
And then that night I'd sit and grind—
To find a place with urging lure—
Then said—"That is the spot for sure"
Each night found me with eager face—
In search of more alluring place—
Each one seemed better than the rest—
For hours I hugged it to my breast—
At last I settled on a spot—
And shouted—"There I cast my lot"—
This place looked mighty good to me—
They called this nature's spot—Lone Tree—
So I packed up my rods and things—
With joy I made the rafters ring—
And hit the pike one close hot day—
All filled with pep went on my way—
I reached the spot then pulled a frown—
Some one had cut the old tree down—
But I was weary from my tramp—
And much disturbed went into camp—
For hours I rubbed my blistered feet—
And said some things I'll not repeat—
At last I saw the sun go down—
And wondered how things were in town—
The gnats just filled my eyes and ears—
Mosquito bites drove me to tears—
I made my bed upon the ground—
While bull-frogs chortled all around—
And squads of ants drilled on my back—
And some got off the beaten track—
Then when some mother lost her child—
She ambled o'er my frame quite wild—
So if you plan on leaving home—
On wild vacation long to roam—
Here is a tip—
Just start to plan two months ahead—
With eyes aglow—
You'll have the best time of your life—
BEFORE YOU GO!

Listen, World!

BRICKS built without straw will not last. Have you ever inspected the old adobe houses? They were built of the most primitive bricks—sun baked clay crudely shaped by Indian toilers. But ignorant as the builders were, they knew that you couldn't make bricks without straw. The old adobe buildings endure despite a hundred years of eating storm and crumbling heat. And the thing that makes them endure is the stubble and grit which holds the clay together. Without that the bricks would long since have gone back to earth.

You can't build the bricks for a strong and permanent career without straw. Many of us try to do so. We have such beautiful ideals with which we plan to create the house of life—lovely white bricks, in which there is no dross whatever, no commonness, no rubble.

This is particularly true of the woman builder. Her bricks must be stainless, unmarred, or she will discard them. She is the supreme idealist, and unless all human material measures up to her standards she rejects it. And should soiled or broken bricks through some accident become incorporated in her structure, she is disconsolate. She feels that her whole program is WRECKED IRRETRIEVABLY.

She's wrong. We can't build bricks without straw. We can't build good business or good character without a backing of common elements. We must mix in the grit of life along with the purity, the vulgar along with the ideal, facts with theory, sense with dreams.

No great human life was ever reared without many and many a broken, darkened brick. There is no enduring profit or protection for other people in an institution or a person that does not allow for such bricks. If you do not understand sin or tragedy or failure or silliness, if you will have nothing to do with such rubbish in molding your bricks of experience, then be sure your building will crumble.

My Marriage Problems

Adele Garrison's New Phase Of

Revelations of a Wife

WHAT PUZZLED MADGE ABOUT CLAIRE FOSTER'S STRANGE ATTITUDE.

I saw Dicky's eyes narrow ever so slightly as Claire Foster tauntingly asked him why he was delaying going after our dinner order while I made out the grocery list for the next day. And I knew that despite the strong attraction she apparently had for him, her crude exhibition of spoiled-beauty tyranny was annoying him exceedingly. But his voice was as insouciant as always when he answered:

"Because, angel-faced child, there are four flights of stairs leading to this apartment, and my lower limbs are very weary. After I have ordered the dinner I shall have plenty of time to attend to the grocery order, and thus save the extra journey."

She rose from the low chair into which she had flung her lithe length, walked up to him, and putting her hands upon his shoulders, swung him around facing the door. Then she snatched up his hat which he had deposited upon the top of the phonograph case and clapped it on his head.

"Forward, march!" she commanded. "It will take Madge a half-hour to make out that list—these perfect housekeepers have to have every item right, you know, and if you think I'm going to have my dinner delayed an extra half-hour, you have about nine and a half more deep think coming. My little Mary is wailing for eats, and she's going to get 'em. Where's your chivalry, man, thinking of your legs when a lady is hungry!"

"I'm likely to forget you're a lady with much more of this sort of cave-woman stuff," he bantered lightly, but, without further words, he went out of the door. I wondered if there was not a soupcon of truth in his words.

As for myself, "flabbergasted"—one of my mother-in-law's favorite expressions—was the only word to express my reaction to Claire Foster's odd behavior. When I had first seen her, many months ago, in Dr. Pettit's company, she had attracted me by her fresh young beauty, her insouciance, and a certain breezy, warm-heartedness, spelling her western origin. But I had also been repelled by a tinge of hardness and boldness in her manner, which I had laid, however, to the prevailink style in modern youthful femininity.

The discovery of her photograph with its bizarre inscription in Dicky's room, followed by the newspaper report of the escapade from which I just had rescued her, had given me a feeling for her which was as near hatred as an emotion could be. But her evident suffering, her apparently sincere remorse, her pathetic wish to do anything I wished when I reached the Barker house had banished that feeling altogether, and there had crept into my heart a strong sympathy for her, and the liking which one generally feels for the grateful recipient of one's kindness.

It had been but a few hours since on the train hearing us to the city she had murmured with every appearance of emotional sincerity:

"Perhaps, sometimes, I can prove my gratitude." And now, within a few minutes, she had been guilty of gross discourtesy toward me, and of an exhibition of petty feminine tyranny toward Dicky such as only a woman very sure of the fealty of a man would give.

What was behind this sudden change of demeanor? With a sudden flash of cynicism I remembered that until we found a refuge in the Bliss apartment there never had been a minute when we were free from observation by outsiders. Was that the reason for her good behavior?

Had she been playing a part in order to insure my continued protection of her, and on being assured, I told myself bitterly, that I was "easy," had she thrown off the mask?

Or—I hated to think her guilty of such deliberate meanness as my first thought—was she simply reverting without conscious thought of her natural self, out of which she had been frightened by the unpleasant experience which had befallen her at the Barker house?

My own course was plain, however. While she was our guest I could make no change in my treatment of her. To ignore such behavior as hers of the last few minutes would be hard, but I must do it.

I carefully avoided her eyes, however, as with elaborate carelessness I said sweetly:

"Come on, Claire. Dicky won't be back for half an hour. Let's look over the apartment, and plan where we're going to put things."

A certain celebrated doctor hated to pay his bills, and got out of doing so whenever he could. One day the doctor employed a workman to mend some pavement just outside of his house. Afterwards he exclaimed:

"Why, you rascal! Do you expect to be paid for such a piece of work?" Why, you have spoiled my pavement and then covered it over with earth to hide the bad work!"

The workman winked knowingly. "Doctor," he retorted slyly, "mine is not the only bad work the earth hides."

The Adventures of Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy

by Johnny Gruelle

THE two mean little old Witches looked funny when Raggedy Ann made them hop around upon their hands.

And when the two little Witches tried to get upon their feet they found they could not do it. "You will have to stand upon your hands until we get three miles from here," Raggedy Ann told them.

Then, when the two little old Witches finally could stand upon their feet, they were so tired they had to sit down and rest.

"Just you wait, Winda Witch," Wanda Witch said, as she wiped

"JUST YOU WAIT, WINDA WITCH," WANDA WITCH SAID.

her face with her red hands. "When we catch the Raggedys, we will soon have the Wishing Pebble and the Wishing Stick, that will make up for all the trouble the Raggedys have caused!"

Of course, the two mean little Witches, just like some other people in this world, thought that it was the Raggedy's fault because they bumped into trouble, but really, when a person bumps into trouble, it is because they have tried to do something they should not have done.

And so, each time the two Witches got into trouble, it was because they wished to do something wrong. And trying to do something wrong, always brings unhappiness. So, the two mean little Witches were very unhappy and very angry as they sat and rested. And the more they rested, the more unhappy and angry they became. "Now we will chase the Raggedys!" Wanda Witch said as she jumped to her feet and picked up the flying broom.

Wanda and Winda Witch both climbed upon the flying broom and were soon scooting through the woods after the Raggedys.

"We will soon be to where they are hiding!" Wanda Witch said to Winda Witch. And indeed, this was true, for, as soon as the Raggedys thought the two Witches were after them again, they and little Ned Gnome had wished themselves real, real small and had crawled down into a little mousie's home.

So, when the two Witches came to where the Raggedys were hiding, all they could see was the tiny mousie's home; a hole down into the ground.

"We will have to fly home and get a spade!" Wanda Witch said, "For we can never get the Raggedys and little Ned Gnome out of the Mousie's home unless we dig them out!" So there was nothing for the Witches to do, but to get upon their flying broom and return home after the spade.

Just as soon as the two mean little old Witches were out of sight, the Raggedys and little Ned Gnome came up out of the Mousie's home and made themselves large again.

Then, before they ran away through the deep, deep woods, Raggedy Ann wished for the Mousie's home to become invisible to the Witches.

"That will keep them hunting for our hiding place for a long, long time." Raggedy Ann laughed as she and Raggedy Andy and little Ned Gnome scampered away through the thick bushes in the deep, deep woods.

A Mystery a Day

A series of perplexing cases that have withstood all efforts of solution

THE CURSE OF THE RUSSIAN JEWELS.

Followed by a fate almost as sinister and inevitable as that which stalks in the trail of the Hope diamond or the great gem known as the "Moon of the Mountains," the pearls which at last found their way into the possession of the Grand Duchess Xenia Alexandrovna of Russia, sister of the late Czar, have had a history which is as unique as it is mysterious.

Known as "The Necklace of Tears," this magnificent collection of 389 almost priceless pearls first adorned the throne room of the Great Mogul at Delhi. Tradition has it that a curse was upon the necklace even then, for a Persian army swept down upon the palace and a Persian chieftain forced his way into the throne room, slaughtered the Mogul and the ladies of his harem who had worn the pearls and rode off with the jewels wound about his turban.

The same night, as the Persian leader slept in his tent, a French soldier of fortune, who was stationed as a sentinel outside, slipped under the canopy, thrust a dagger through the heart of the sleeping man and escaped with the jewels hidden under his cloak. After many dangerous adventures, the Frenchman sold the stolen necklace to Alexs Orloff, a favorite of Catherine the Great, to whom he brought the pearls as a gift. But the man who had stolen the jewels had but little time to enjoy the money paid him. Less than a week later his body was found on a lonely road not far from the Russian capital, with the handle of a Persian dagger protruding from between his shoulder blades.

The next victim of the matchless necklace was Princess Tarakhanoff, daughter of Empress Elizabeth and proper claimant to the Russian throne. At Catherine's insistence, Orloff made love to her and, after presenting her with the Necklace of Tears, induced her to return to Moscow from Florence, where she had taken refuge. But, but as soon as she crossed the Russian frontier, the Princess was arrested and hurried to the Fortress of Saints Peter and Paul where she was confined in a dungeon below the level of the water. The next day her body, drowned by the rising tide, was found on the floor of the cell.

Russian history during practically all the years which follow is filled with the sudden and violent deaths of those who wore the priceless necklace—among them Empress Alexandra, wife of Nicholas I; the wife of Alexander III, who was plunged to death in a railroad wreck; Rasputin, who was reported to have received several of the pearls in return for his services, and the late Czarina herself.

The latest victim of the supposed curse was Horace E. Dodge, the Detroit automobile manufacturer, who purchased a number of the gems at a price of more than $750,000 and had them presented to Mrs. Dodge on August 10, 1919. Not long after the first American wearer of the royal pearls received the gift, Mr. Dodge attended a banquet at an automobile show in New York, where both he and his brother, John F. Dodge, were taken ill at the same time and finally died. His wife, who had worn the pearls only twice, could not bear to keep them, so she handed them on to her daughter, Delphine, who recently became Mrs. Cromwell—but with a warning as to the strange fate which has followed nearly every one whom they have adorned.

The STORY of JACKIE COOGAN As Told By His Mother

To ZOE BECKLEY

The "King" Misbehaves.

The "set" representing the palace of the king is one of the most important and beautiful scenes in the new play. An interior showing the throne room, with the young king's throne at one end, a glitter with carved gile and shining purple satin cushions. A velvet canopy is above it, bearing the royal arms. A long purple carpet leads up to the throne, and no one is allowed to step upon it before the scene is taken because every footmark will show up, magnified, before the camera.

Five hundred people, "extras," are in this coronation scene. They are all assembled, dressed in silks and satins, lace and furbelows, white wigs and face-patches, and all the gorgeousness of a European court.

Jackie's costume for this scene is a uniform, blue, red, yellow and gold, over which he wears a velvet cape with wide ermine collar and border. The strong lens of the movie camera brings out every imperfection, every touch of cheapness, every wrinkle, line and fleck. That is why, nowadays, only the best of materials are used. The human eye might not note the difference, but the eye of the camera does.

The gay assemblage is gathered. The great Klieg lights are set up, and the various spotlights, sun arcs, Cooper-Hewitts, etc. The scene is rehearsed. The director with his megaphone takes his place, the camera-men are ready. The music starts.

"Now, Jack," says Mr. Coogan, "remember to walk slowly and with all the dignity you can scrape up, down the aisle, Remember!"

"It's a bear of a scene," puts in the director, "don't stumble and fall on your nose, or sneeze, or step an anybody's feet, or anything but act like a young king should. Slow. Dignified. That's the stuff, Jackie. Now! Lights! Music! Camera!"

And the scene starts off.

Jackie, in his royal robes, goes down the aisle, followed by courtiers, aged diplomats, soldiers. The court people on either side bow double. Jackie, the "king" bows majestically to right and left. He approached the steps of the throne, ascends slowly—a tiny figure, quaint in its majesty. He is seated on the throne.

"Now," shouts the director through his megaphone, "out with the hand! You're bestowing your gracious greeting upon your count."

Jackie puts out his small gloved hand—exactly as stiff as though it were a signpost, fingers close together and slightly crooked toward the palm. The director roars, Mr. Coogan shouts. The gesture is so absurdly grotesque and ungraceful that even the court people have difficulty repressing grins.

"What's the bunch of bananas for!" yells Mr. Coogan.

"Is your hand made of wood, Jackie—whatever's the matter?" cries the director, fairly dancing with annoyance. Kill the spots; save your Kliegs!" he shouts to the electricians manning the big lights. And down the long purple carpet, unmindful of footmarks, runs the director, followed by Mr. Coogan.

Jackie upon his throne, regards them guiltily. He knows he has made a mess of the scene—and he knows why.

"Well, Daddy-dear," he says in a very small, choked voice, "I didn't think it would be noticed or I wouldn't have done it!"

"Done what?"

"Well—tell you the truth, Daddy—and Mr. Schertzinger—I was palming a dime. * * * I sold three marbles to Benny Frost—and this uniform hasn't got any pockets in it!"

What Does Your Husband Do?

(Copyright, 1923)

The following letter by one American gave me a wonderful idea. I am going to start a campaign introducing Ancestral Worship for all the narrow-minded humans I can find.

It's not a new idea exactly, the Chinese have always practiced it, and I know several places where it's greatly needed. It is for those who take upon themselves the glory of living, the folks who puff out their chests because somewhere in the past THEIR ancestors braved storm and hardship to come here. Do they give said Honorable Ancestors the credit? Not on your life. They're proud because they were clever enough to choose such daring and sturdy great-great-grand-daddies.

If they'd realize that it isn't due to their efforts that they live here, they might be just a little more tolerant towards the man next door whose father couldn't speak English when he arrived.

Dearest Jerry:

Hope I am not too far behind on the late controversy of one set of Europeans over another. These people who are sure that the northern European is vastly superior to the southern European ought to move into a Norwegian community, or I should say a Scandinavian community, with a few Danes mixed in. Then they should try the Spanish, Italian and Portugese community awhile. I have done both, and if any one can show me enough difference to rave over I would like to see it.

The generation direct from the "old country" each bears its particular stamp from its country, but as far as I can see, the southern European in the next generation, when married either to some of our people or his own, tries just as hard, or a little harder, to adjust himself to our standards of living.

I suppose his religion is the main objection that some have. Well, he inherited his religion, the Scandinavian his, and I mine, but thank goodness, my head is clear enough to see flaws in my own religion, as well as theirs, and to see good in both of them, too.

Just because my ancestors wanted a change of dwelling place a couple hundred years before somebody's else, I sure don't feel a bit more wonderful than the other fellow. I didn't have anything to do with it. It's nothing to my credit. But am mighty grateful to said adventursome ancestor, and as one particluar gentleman in Berkeley used to remark, "I am certainly glad to be here," and I especially enjoy the Jerry ideal and wish all Americans would follow her directions for being an American. Only my two babies can prevent me from reading your page regularly.

—ANOTHER JERRYITE.

Autoists and Pedestrians, ATTENTION. Here are two letters from thinking men, one a man who has lost a loved one in an auto accident, and the other from a man who has thought out a regular safety-first plan.

These letters may not be interesting to men and women seeking sensational reading, but they're a vital issue in the community right now, and as such should be studied. There should be a system evolved that would prevent the appalling number of auto accidents and deaths.

Geraldine—

The letter of H. T. C. expressing fear that the reporting of careless automobile drivers will make spies out of Oaklanders was evidently not written by anyone who ever had an accident in his family, Geraldine, something had to be done. The statistics show 55 persons were killed on the Oakland streets in a year and more than 1500 injured. Do you realize what that means? It means more than were killed in the Argonaut mine, which distressed and appalled the whole country. As I understand what I have read in the papers, the Safety Council checks up on the reports and anybody who abused the plan would be found out and exposed. If the city cannot afford a hundred or more traffic officers, and of course it cannot, I say let the citizens, responsible ones held in check, do the work. I'm willing to serve for I know what it means to have a careless driver injure one I love.

—NO SPY.

Here is the one with a remedy. What do you think?

Dear Jerry:

I cannot use this stamp for a better purpose. I want to comment upon the traffic laws.

There is a squabble between pedestrian and driver.

Listen!

Why not have our street cars (the magnets that dray pedestrians) routed off the principal thoroughfares—why have them parade through the busy sections? When we want a train we go to a depot.

Establish a one-way street system for autos, as they are in the majority, and should have preference.

Have a "block system" when autos approach congested sections, the speed is regulated, and traffic is controlled by—let's say, switching on a light at each corner—take a corner lamp post, and put in a red—or green, or whatever light. Have these lights extend for blocks. Have a start, stop, and cross-street color.

At busy corners, make pedestrians travel with autos. Oakland's "growed up"—it's not a jay-town.

At the danger crossings in the suburbs, have a pale red street are lamp—that's warning enough, and furnishes safety as well as light.

I am a driver. I offer three rules which should be made into laws, and the lack of knowledge of these rules or safety laws, of any kind, should be punishable by fine or imprisonment. Our police should quiz any traffic violator about them, and if they cannot be answered, arrest them. That will make the driver keep them in mind.

1—A vehicle crossing a main thoroughfare should slow to one-half traffic speed.

2—In turning, if a car is approaching, give the "straight-shoot" car the right of way—don't turn in front of it.

3—Don't attempt to pass a car at a street corner or at the crest of a hill.

Those are the three prime rules I believe for safety.

—OTTO DRIVER.

P. S.—Regarding the holler against citizen traffic cops, our government means the enforcement of law by the most representative among us. Our high grade citizens of various organizations are not petty enough, nor small enough, to violate a trust by succumbing to revenge or malice.

It has been whispered about fer some weeks that Joe would toss his hat in th' sheriffality ring as a third party cannydate, but th' wiser ones, knowin' that he had fifteen cows t' milk, only laughed at th' ideer. Last night, after an address on "Group Action," at Melodeon hall, Mr. Moots took th' stage an' announced himself as bein' in th' race fer sheriff. He dwelt at length on all th' puzzlin' an' intricate problems that confront th' farmer, he delved int' state affairs, he exploited his views an' convictions as regards th' affairs o' th' nation, but it wuz not 'till he got fairly int' th' European wreckage that he amazed his hearers by th' easy an' graceful manner with which he handled th' elements that are playing so large a part in th' unstabilization o' th' universe. Congregational Building Now Athens Club Site

The First Congregational church of Oakland ceased to exist as a church building on August 15, when the property at Twelfth and Clay streets was turned over to its purchasers, the Athens Athletic Club. However, the church as an organization is still very much alive, and its regular services and activities will be carried on in full swing in temporary quarters.

All church school services will be held in the parish house of the First Unitarian church, Fourteenth and Castro streets, at 9:45 a. m. every Sunday. A bus service will be maintained for all members of the school who desire to attend the morning worship service at Temple Sinai.

Through the courtesy of the First Unitarian church the Sunday school of the Congregational church will combine with that of the Unitarian church, the combined school to be known as the Union Church school. Rev. R. C. Waddell of the Congregational church will act as superintendent, while the classes of both schools will retain their usual teachers.

An interesting and valuable feature of the year's work will be a teacher training class, taught by Miss Ada Rose Demerest, of the Berkeley Week Day Schools of Religion.

The Women's League will hold their regular meetings and carry on their regular work in the ladies' parlor of the Unitarian church. The office of the church secretary, Miss Grace Larson, is also established in the Unitarian church, office hours being daily from 9 to 12 and from 1:30 to 6, except Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

REVOLUTION BANKRUPTCY RUIN

The world faces a condition never before experienced. Fear for the outcome has taken hold of all classes of people, as they see in a measure the things which are coming upon the earth.

We are at the end of the old order and concerning this Jesus said: "Upon the earth distress of nations with perplexity, men's hearts failing them for fear and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth."

Russia and Germany are in revolution. Conditions point to Great Britain soon following in the same way.

The war did not make the world safe for democracy, but left Europe hopelessly bankrupt.

Lloyd George recently said: "A new chapter opens in the history of Europe and the world with a climax of horror such as mankind has never yet witnessed.

Belligerent organizations in Europe are taking account of their strength and the contending forces are hastening to the great battle of Armageddon. (Rev. 16-16).

The disaster is beyond the description of human words.

The nations are hurrying to this great conflict.

International conferences cannot avert it. (Isa. 8-9-10).

But let humanity take heart, the Lord's remedy is adequate and complete.

You owe it to yourselves and your families to be informed concerning this great prophecy now in process of fulfillment.

W. S. CANNELL

on Sunday, August 26, at 7:45 p. m. will speak on this great subject.

'All Nations Marching to Armageddon'

But millions now living will never die.

This address will be delivered throughout the world on this date.

Radio fans, attention! At 3 o'clock, Sunday, August 26, Judge Rutherford of New York will speak on this subject in Los Angeles at the Coliseum which has a seating capacity of 75,000. Last Sunday at Tacoma Stadium 25,000 people listened to this remarkable lecture. Time is at 3 o'clock.

Commissioner Carter Bags a Deer

Commissioner Al Carter is back from his vacation and there is one less deer roaming the foothills west of Healdsburg. Carter brought down the three-pointer with a pair of shots, the first being a bullseye and the last clipping the tip off a horn. Billy Hayes, Bert Shine, Cleveland R. Wright and L. K. Fraser accompanied the commissioner to the Ornbaum Rock Pile ranch and everybody got a buck.

Mrs. C. F. Ford Wins S. F. City Championship

Miss Barbara Lee of Sequoyah Club Wins Consolation Medal.

At Lincoln Park yesterday Mrs. Charles F. Ford won the title of city champion when she defeated the local expert, Mrs. Brent Potter, in a sensational finish at the 18th green. The match was closely contested to the turn when Mrs. Ford was one up, winning 10th and 11th, the Claremonter was in the comfortable position of being 3 up and 7 to play, but Mrs. Potter won the long holes and took the lead at the 16th, the 17th was finally won by Mrs. Ford, when the Lincoln Park champion threw away a chance to finish the match by missing her approach. Playing to the 18th all even both were short of the green with their third, but Mrs. Ford's accurate approach putt to within three feet of the cup gave her the match and championship, when her opponent failed to get down from 10 feet in the like.

Miss Knowles, by winning her match against Mrs. E. A. LeFleur, demonstrated the ability of Claremont golfers to score well in open contests. Miss Knowles' putting and approaching more than counteracted her opponent's long tee shots.

Miss Barbara Lee of Sequoyah won the consolation medal handicap yesterday when she scored a brilliant round of 103-20-83. The Sequoyah Miss plays the difficult Lincoln Park course with rare judgment and was unfortunate in meeting the ultimate winner in the second flight, Mrs. Frank Sheedy, in the early rounds. Here are the winners of the various flights:

Championship Flight — Mrs. Charles F. Ford defeated Mrs. Brent Potter, 1 up.

Second Flight — Mrs. Frank Sheedy (1) defeated Mrs. Clarence Council (3), 3and 2.

Third Flight—Mrs. W. C. Haaker (1) defeated Mrs. Ruby Von Schmeling (0), on th e19th.

Fourth Flight—Mrs. R. D. Inman (4) defeated Mrs. J. W. Glenn (2), 7 and 5.

Defeated Flights — Miss Alice Knowles (0) defeated Mrs. E. A. La Fleur (3) 2 and 1.

Cy Williams Ties Bambino In Homer Race

Ruth Leads American and Hornsby National in Getting Hits.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25. — Cy Williams of Philadelphia by cracking out his 32d home run of the season, has tied "Babe" Ruth of the American League for home run honors in both leagues.

Rogers Hornsby of St. Louis continues serenly on in his role as leading batter in the older circuit, according to averages compiled of players participating in 70 or more games and including games of last Wednesday.

Hornsby has an average of .397, which is a drop from his .405 of last week, but he continues to lead Zack Wheat of Brooklyn, who has .378, and Bottomly of St. Louis, who has .370.

Pep Young of New York, however, heads the list of run getters with 101, while Frisch, also of the Giants, leads the extra base column with 249, which includes 11 home runs, 9 three-baggers and 26 doubles. McInnis of Boston broke the sacrifice base hit tie with Duncan of Cincinnati during the week and leads with 25, while Duncan failed to sacrifice and has 23.

Babe Ruth is making the American League averages look somewhat like a one-man leader proposition. He leads all the batters in hitting with an average of .404, which is a gain of nine points during the week.

The nearest in hitting to him is Heilmann of Detroit, with .388, and Speaker of Cleveland, with .368.

Del Monte Golfers Led by Goodwin

C. W. Goodwin, Del Monte, led a field of 70 folgers in the qualifying round of the midsummer tournament. His low gross was 80. J. C. Childs, Sacramento, was one stroke behind. Malcolm McNaghton, Los Angeles, with a handicap of 14, had low net with 69.

BOBBY HARPER WINS.

Oak Southpaw Stops Seals' Upward Climb

Mails Has Mound Record That P. C. L. Hurlers Will Find Hard to Beat.

By EDDIE MURPHY.

Walter Mails, husky Oakland southpaw, said the other day that he would pitch ball every day for the Oaks if Manager Ivan asked him to do so. Walter was not trying to kid anybody, for he went right to his manager Thursday evening, after Ray Kremer was defeated, and told him the very same thing. "If you want I will pitch the Friday game, for you may need me again on Sunday," said Walter to Ivan. And Howard, being hard pressed for pitchers to work against the Seals, told Walter that he could pitch yesterday's game. The big southpaw stepped out and pitched as beautiful a game as one would want to look at, and he had the Seals helpless. The Oaks evened the series by scoring a 5 to 1 win.

It was the six straight win for Mails, and his second one in the series over the Seals. The transbay outfit did not score their lone run off Mails until the seventh inning, when Mulligan got a double and Kelly singled. Kilduff also got a single, but Mails tightened after that and the Seals were again helpless. Those three hits, and a very questionable one on which Kelly beat Brubaker's throw to first, were all the hits made off Mails in the nine innings.

Mails has a record that few pitchers ever made in the Coast league. In those six straight wins he has allowed only four earned runs. Until the Seals scored their one yesterday, Mails had pitched 33 innings of ball without allowing an earned run. He pitched three shutout games in those six wins. He started on his winning streak by blanking the Angels, 1 to 0. Then he beat them by allowing three earned runs. He came home and beat Sacramento 4 to 1, and the one run was not earned off him. He got hurt and was out for a few weeks, and staged a comeback at Sacramento last week, beating the Senators 5 to 0 by allowing only four hits. He opened the series for the Oaks with the Seals Tuesday and blanked the transbay outfit, and he came back yesterday again and beat them, almost scoring another shutout. The chances are that Mails will take the mound tomorrow afternoon again.

GEARY IS BUMPED.

The Oaks lost no time in getting to the shoots of Bob Geary, who started on the mound for the Seals, and the first inning saw them put over three runs. Mike Massey started with a hit to Rhyne and Cooper crossed up the Seal infield by driving a hit over Mulligan's head. Brubaker drove a hard hit to right, scoring Massey, and Cooper crossed the plate while Brubaker took second when Kilduff's throw bounced over Yelle's head. Knight and Cather were out, and LaFayette was safe on Ellison's boot of his hard grounder, Brubaker scoring.

The other two runs were made in the fifth when Brubaker, who had a big day with the willow, hit a single, took second on an infield out, Cather beat out a hit to short, and LaFayette's long double to left center was followed by Pete Read's single to left. Bob Geary gave way to a pinch hitter in the sixth, and Tim Buckley pitched the last couple of innings.

KILDUFF, KELLY PLAY.

Manager Bert Ellison of the Seals put Pete Kilduff and Joe Kelly into the lineup. Both those players were out of action for a time due to injuries. Kelly celebrated with two hits.

The fielding of Eddie Mulligan for the Seals and Al Maderas for the Oaks at third base were features. Jack Knight made a great play in the third inning when he leaped into the air and speared Maderas' throw, after the latter had made a wonderful stop of Rhyne's hard bounder down the third base line. St. Mary's Men "Sign Up" for Football Game

Head Coach Madigan To Size Up Material for First Time Next Monday.

Head Coach "Slip" Madigan has issued his first call for football candidates at St. Mary's college.

About forty players will "sign up" Monday for the fall campaign. The first of the week coach Madigan will give lectures to the candidates and teach them a few of the fundamentals of his system. Sometime during the middle of the week the men will fall on the ball on the field for the first time this season.

After three days of "skull practice" the footballers will be ready for hard physical labor on the gridiron.

Madigan wants to begin early with his squad so that he can teach his men the first principles of the famous "Notre Dame shift." Under Coach Rockne at Notre Dame Madigan mastered the fundamentals of the new, improved basketball style of football.

At least half of the year's squad will be without previous experience in Notre Dame football so that he wants to begin the drill without further delay.

St. Mary's authorities are highly pleased over the prospects. The players average heavier than they were last year. The big, husky candidates look like real athletes.

For the first time in history the head coach will have a number of capable substitutes. In the past there has not been more than about thirteen first string players available for the games.

This season there will be at least twenty huskies who will be powerful enough to fill any gaps in the line or back field.

Large Pickle And Crops for Canning Seen

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25. — Large pickle and canning crops were forecast for this year by the Department of Agriculture today.

A crop of 5,603,000 bushels of cucumbers for pickles, or more than double the 1922 crop, is expected. The increase is attributed to larger acreage and greatly increased yields. Michigan is the leading producing state with a forecast of 2,579,000 bushels.

The quantity of tomatoes for canning is forecast at 1,391,690 tons, compared with 1,133,350 tons last year. New York, Maryland and Delaware combined are expected to produce 359,660 tons, Indiana, 310,290, and California, 197,100.

Large quantities of sweet corn for canning are also forecast, the crop being placed at 637,330 tons compared with 483,480 tons in 1922. The leading producing states are Illinois, 143,249 tons; Iowa, 118,590; Ohio, 62,300; Maryland, 52,020; New York, 50,020, and Maine, 49,950 tons.

Coast Tire Receiver To Spend $60,000

J. B. Lanktree, court commissioner and receiver in charge of the plant of the Coast Tire and Rubber Company pending the adjudication of litigation in the local courts, is preparing to expend $60,000 which the company has been allowed to borrow. The order to this effect was signed by Superior Judge Dudley Kinsell.

A portion of the money will be used to take up a note secured by certain collateral, which can be sold without notice unless the note is paid. The balance will be used to pay for materials ordered some time ago and which are to be delivered shortly.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Wholesale prices, 92 score butter, dropped a half cent in all butter markets except Boston this week. Anticipation of their wants by buyers during the previous week which caused a holding off in activity were considered responsible for the declines.

Production during the week was about the same as the week before. Weather conditions over a large part of the producing area were beneficial and an early increase in the make was expected. Trading stocks were lighter and the amount stored was small.

During the weak 130 casks Holland and 2300 casks Danish arrived.

Range in wholesale price 92 score butter for the week was as follows: Chicago, half cent less at 43; New York, half cent less at 44; Boston, unchanged at 44½; Philadelphia, half cent less at 45.

ALL HOPE THEY ARE RIGHT.

At a time when any such expression is to be welcomed the week has disclosed two encouraging opinions of conditions in Europe. One is from Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, and the other from Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler.

Secretary Mellon went abroad to study financial conditions. He was prepared for the worst and rather expected to find it. It is probable, then, there is more than passing significance in the fact that he returned with a report more hopeful than most of those which have been brought back from the other side.

The problems of reparations and other disturbing factors will be settled in some way not as yet known, Mr. Mellon believes. France is prospering industrially, the government is restoring the davastated regions, the factories are busy and the crops are better than in a number of years. Secretary Mellon found that France has little of unemployment and that the situation in England is not grave as has been reported. The Secretary even refuses to take a hopeless view of German conditions, holding that the great organizing and constructive force possessed by the people will stand in the way of a revolution. It is not the idea of German bankers, Secretary Mellon is said to believe, to repudiate debts or currency but to reduce the old values of money with a view of stabilizing the mark at a new and low rate.

"There is no sign of war in Europe," says Dr. Butler, "no talk of war and no likelihood of war." Men will say that Dr. Butler and Secretary Mellon have put their hopes into their opinions and will point out certain things which are, to some at least, to be regarded as ominous signs. There can be no denying that the hopes are worthy and there can be no disputing the fact that these two observers are competent and well-informed men. Perhaps the habit of thinking that Europe is going to the dogs is a little too strongly developed.

THE "SHEIK" GANGSTERS.

Of course it is not the fault of the sideburns, the bell-trousers or the coats which are split up the back to a cutely embroidered triangle, but the fact remains that most of those young men who are being arrested in San Francisco for gangster proclivities are garbed and adorned in that manner. The "sheik" with the plastered hair and long cigarette holder has taken the place of the old-fashioned thug of the bristled jaw and pugilist's slouch and he seems every bit as menacing.

In recent weeks there have been too many assaults upon law and decency by street corner loafers and neighborhood gangs. The jail sentences which are being meted to offenders in San Francisco are none too strong! It is to be hoped they have their effect.

Gangsters have taken possession of ferry boats, have terrorized neighboring communities, and have made certain parts of the cities unsafe at night. Their audacity is one of numbers and their "courage" is in direct proportion to the opportunities for flight. The experience of San Francisco should be a lesson for the other Bay cities, a lesson for the "sheiks" and for the police.

ALL YEAR 'ROUND.

Santa Cruz has always been an all-year city. The ocean, mountains, forests, and climate have had no habit of vacationing in the winter months and the same community spirit prevails through the seasons.

Recently Santa Cruz awakened to the fact that it was her own fault that the rest of the [illegible] was regarding her as a summer resort, [illegible] and enjoyable summer resort. To a certain extent outsiders have been content to look [illegible] city, in the winter months, as recuperating from the pleasures and the business [illegible] season. Without doubt Santa [illegible]ingly, has helped in the formation [illegible]. Chairs have been stacked in [illegible] resorts have been closed, and the citizens have had a habit of telling visitors, "Things are not so lively now, but you ought to come here in summer."

There is going to be a change. Santa Cruz is not content with being one of the most attractive summer resorts in the West. It wishes to impress upon the public its advantages as a convention center and its claims to scenery, climate and industry which stand the test of all seasons. So the Chamber of Commerce is raising an advertising fund and the citizens are correcting their old habits. Santa Cruz is an "all year 'round" city and it wishes the world to know it.

CALIFORNIA AND SILK.

Possibilities of the silk manufacturing industry in California continue to attract the attention of the technical journals in the East. Within the week the American Economist and the New York Daily News Record have had articles in which it is predicted that this state will take away from Japan the supremacy of the market and will establish in America a new and gigantic business of growing and manufacturing silks.

The American Economist says:

The silk manufacturing industry of the United States has been at the mercy of the Japanese raw silk trust. Not only have the Japanese controlled their own output but they have come to dominate the Chinese output as well. The annual average price of raw silk the pound in the New York market for 1914 was $3.69 for Japan Filature. For 1922 it was $7.32 and on March 9, 1923, it had risen to $9. It now develops that experiments continued over a period of ten years have resulted in the successful production of raw silk in California.

In the New York Daily News Record for August 9, is a long account of the successful experiments and plans for the development of the industry in this state. The claim is made that the cost of producing the cocoons is less than in Italy, on account of a smaller loss of cocoons, due to the favorable California climate. The product is said to be the equal of the finest Italian silk and can be produced from $3.50 to $5 the pound. Not only that, but it is claimed that there are over half a million acres of California lands adapted to the growth of the mulberry tree, upon the leaves of which the silkworms feed.

"If that entire area were planted to mulberry trees," the Record says, "we should soon be able to produce in continental America enough raw silk to supply our own demands, and we should be no longer dependent upon Japan and China, on the one hand, and France and Italy on the other, for the raw silk to keep our mills busy."

The successful experiments in growing mulberry trees and in raising cocoons have been conducted in this part of the state, notably in the Oroville neighborhood. That these experiments have developed to a point where they are interesting the important trade publications is an evidence of the [illegible] the establishment here, in the near future, of a large new industry.

AIR MAIL A SUCCESS.

Behind this thrilling spectacle of transcontinental air flights and the stimuli they provide for public imagination is a cool and efficient demonstration. The experiment, the Postoffice Department says, is a success; it has accomplished that which was intended. Aircraft can be operated at night on regular schedules, the East can send its important mail to the West in a day of time.

The Department will assemble the data and prepare a program of permanency. Until the service is established regularly the system of part air and part rail delivery which has obtained for the past eight months will be continued.

It is the plan of the Government to make use of the aircraft which are being built as a wing of defense. With the rapid improvement in airplanes and the necessity for maintaining a large fleet comes also the need for the training of pilots for long journeys and to meet all of the difficulties and problems which the breadth of the United States may put in the way. The Air Mail Service, then, serves a number of purposes. It delivers the mail, trains pilots, and makes practical use of the expensive flying craft.

The barbers know that the way to please a customer is to tell him his beard is the toughest they ever shaved.

GRAND OPERA IN GEORGIA.

Every effort to induce the Georgia Legislature to reconsider the statute which it enacted placing a special tax on grand opera failed and it adjourned, leaving the law behind for the consideration of an interested world. It provides that grand opera companies appearing in cities of more than 100,000 population shall pay a tax of $2500 to the State and in smaller places a tax of $1000.

Atlanta is the only city in Georgia having a population of more than 100,000 and the only grand opera company which regularly visits Atlanta is the Metropolitan of New York, which is brought there every year by a local organization which stands the inevitable loss and has aided greatly to the national reputation of Atlanta as a center of liberal culture. If the event is repeated next year they will lose $2500 more and the backwoods districts of Georgia will take the same satisfaction therein that a rude, uncultured village lad finds when he throws mud on the clean apparel of a little city boy.

The debate so far as it has been reported to the country at large indicated that the gentleman who introduced the measure did not care much about the revenue the law would produce. He felt himself affronted by the fine airs in Atlanta's more prosperous social levels. He hurled his tax law at grand opera very much as he might have "shied a rock" at a silk hat in his younger days, and there were enough like-minded members to carry his purpose into action.

Georgia, according to the findings of its leading bankers, has lost enough Negroes to work all of the farms in ten counties, one of the reasons being oppressive discrimination. Are the music lovers to be persecuted until they also start a Northern migration?—Detroit Free Press.

The LANTERN

Sonnet

Fades the bright rose,
Youth fades, and all things rare,
"Let there be Life,"
Love's dawning rapture saith,
And Time makes answer,
Saying,
"Let there be Death."
One day,
Despite the faith
We sing and swear,
Turning to you,
I'll find a stranger there.
"Let there be light,"
Comes with the Morning's
Breath.
"Let there be darkness now,"
Night answereth.
Fade the young loves,
And all things rich
And rare.

Let us not babble
Of Eternity
Who stand upon
This little ledge of Time,
But rape the flashing moment
Of its bliss!
Surely we pass,
Your beauty and my rhyme—
A few more heartbeats,
Love,
And we shall be
Still as the heart
Of Queen Semiramis.

Prescription From Dry Doc Rogers

Sir: Will you kindly tell Mr. Hawley that in case he buys any of this new apple —— which he intends to put in a charred cask to age that he must figure on losing approximately a quart by evaporation. Apple —— ages more rapidly than rye —— or corn ——, and in a year it is all right to use for medicinal purposes. In order not to lose the quart by evaporation it is best to drink it first.

AVIATORS TO SNAP THE ECLIPSE NEXT

EXCERPTS from the NATIONAL PRESS

St. Louis Post-Despatch: "The negro movement from the plantation fields of the South to the industrial centers of the North, a Savannah correspondent informs us, is not merely an exodus. It is a stampede. Cabin after cabin deserted, acres upon acres of fertile farm land untilled, weeds and wild flowers overgrowing the former realms of King Cotton, and not even a human being to ruffle the oppressive silence save the occasional approach of a traveler—such is the picture of the deserted plantation country painted for us by an observer."

New York World: "President Coolidge is a good listener, a so-called excellent source tells the Times correspondent—about the best listener in the United States. 'He never argues with a caller, and, as a rule, when the other fellow finishes talking the interview is over.' If that is true, we are strong for him, possibly because we are a good deal like him. Only we are not a good listener; we appear to be, but we usually are thinking of something else."

New York Sun: "The National Industrial Conference Board finds that current wages buy more than they bought three years ago, in the previous period of high pay. Who loses the difference? Three years ago the farmers still made big returns too. Eggs and butter were up in the sixties or seventies, ham and bacon in the fifties, flour at its highest in more than a generation. The wage earners pay less now for most of what the farmer raises. As for the present purchasing power of his earnings, that is the other side of the picture."

Seattle Times: "An athletic American recently performed the prodigious feat of swimming the English Channel. When he finished his long swim, after beir in the water more than twenty-seven hours, he asked for—no, not a stimulant—just a dish of ice cream. It was ice cream that the abstemious Tommy Gibbons ate after his grueling fight with Dempsey and it was the same delicacy that the Alaska miners, who had been subsisting on the iron rations of bacon and beans, sought when they came back to the States. It is one of the articles of food given to the sick when the vital forces are low."

Kansas City Times: "Mrs. Mallory, eight times tennis champion, was beaten overwhelmingly Saturday by a mere slip of a 17-year-old girl. From her pictures Mrs. Mallory no longer is the slip of a girl she was, say, ten or twelve years ago."

Detroit Free Press: "The proverbial philosopher of the San Francisco Chronicle says there are no monuments erected to men who thought it best to let well enough alone. What about the statesmen who thought the United States would be better united than divided?"

SPIRIT of the STATE PRESS

There is a new organization in San Francisco called the High School Parents' Assembly. It wants to show that it is functioning, so it has asked the superintendent of schools to appoint forthwith a "supervisor of character" for the pupils of the high school. There is nothing to laugh at about this, absurd as it is. The San Francisco parents are merely passing the buck, what many parents have been doing for some time.—Watsonville Register.

Widespread use of the motor car is compelling lawmakers to give considerable attention to the special problems it presents. Judging from the efforts now being made to promote safety and sanity in driving it is altogether probable that within the next few years the world will see many radical extensions in public control.—San Bernardino Sun.

Whatever may be one's convictions regarding the wisdom of the community property law which gives the wife equal rights with her husband in disposing of her half of the community property, the course of events foreshadows ultimate victory for the women in their fight to win this right by legislation.—Palo Alto Times.

A protest to the Fish and Game Commission and the Anti-Debris Commission has been made by State Senator W. F. Gates as a result of the muddy condition of the Feather river, due to the construction of the Butt Valley reservoir by the Great Western Power Company. Huge monitors are now playing upon the hillsides there, washing material into the dam. The result is that the usually clear Feather river has taken on a chocolate hue.—Oroville Register.

Warning that the state laws relating to the operation of autos driving fires will be strictly enforced here, was issued by City Recorder Gibson last night. Complaint was made that many autoists did not pull into the curb and give the fire engines a clear right of way. Other autoists, it was asserted, ran past firemen in the performance of their duties.—Oroville Register.

Work of putting up the huge tent that will house the San Luis Obispo county fair was begun yesterday. The tent, which has been rented from Hendrix & Luebert of San Francisco, is 174x194 feet and will cover an acre of ground. The tent will house over a hundred booths. —San Luis Obispo Tribune.

There should be no hesitancy on the part of the board of public safety in granting the local physicians the privilege they ask of having a parking space at each doctor's office reserved for the physician's automobile. The right is not asked as a personal favor, but as a public safety measure.—Palo Alto Times.

An Oakland suburb is selling building lots with a car thrown in. Of course, it's a Henry. Two lots must be bought to get in on the combination offer, with a small payment down and a small payment each month until the contract is paid out. That will keep the buyer busy even at the reduced cost of gasoline.—Stockton Record.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE DAY.

A little bit of laughter and a little bit of song,
A hand in friendship waving to the man who walks along,
Perhaps a little nearer to the goal so far away,
And so the record's written at the passing of a day.

A little bit of sunshine or a little bit of rain,
For some a time of pleasure and for some a time of pain;
And should you laugh this morning and spend the hours in play,
Be sure you save your courage for the coming stormy day.

Not long the rain or sunshine, not long the mirth or woe,
But into each the sorrows and pleasures come and go;
A little care to try us, a little laughter gay,
And what shall come tomorrow no man can truly say.

A little bit of friendship is all a man shall reap,
And wisely is that ordered—too much would make it cheap;
And whether mirth or sadness, or skies be blue or gray,
Perhaps the soul grows richer with every passing day.

Washburn's Hill

The Hill of St. Julien, in the Toul sector. The dugouts, and a battery emplacement. Talk about castles in Spain! A flock of them would be a child's toy compared with what Major Slater Washburn, of this city, has bought in France. The dugouts and the battery location are his, bought and paid for. "The old hill looked good to he," he says, "so I bought it."

The old hill didn't look so good a few years ago when the boys of the Twenty-sixth first made its acquaintance; Mr. Washburn among them, then as a corporal. While he lives Major Washburn will have the property kept up and guarded as a memorial, not cluttered with monuments and inscriptions, but preserved as nearly as possible in the shape in which it emerged from the fury of war. And when he is mustered out, it will be turned over to the French government, for use as an outdoor museum.

A very nice "bit" of sentiment. Many a good fellow who fought gallantly Over There will envy the major and his ability to indulge in it. Many thousands of Americans have heart-rights in French soil, and none could be more prompt and gracious in acknowledging the debt than the French folk have been—Worcester Telegram.

TOO RISKY FOR DOGGIE.

The beautiful movie queen was obdurate.

"I will not jump off that cliff."

Her press agent attempted to reason with her.

"Why, you have risked your complexion a thousand times in worse jumps than that."

"But this director is a brute," she explained.

"Heh?" he asked.

"He wants me to jump with my dog in my arms."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

All this advertisement of religion by the controversialists may make it more popular with the masses.—Dallas Journal.

PERSONAL HEALTH SERVICE

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author.

HARD WATER AS A BEVERAGE

Hardness in water is due to the presence of soluble salts of calcium (lime) and magnesium chiefly. These salts form a curd with soap instead of a lather and therefore waste soap. Boiling removes what is called "temporary hardness" which depends on the calcium and magnesium salts held in solution by carbonic acid gas which is driven off by boiling. "Permanent hardness" depends on sulphates and chlorides of calcium and magnesium and is not affected by boiling.

Rain water is soft. Surface waters are usually not very hard. Ground waters are likely to be quite hard. Waters drawn from limestone regions are not necessarily hard, especially if the catchment area from which the water has come is mountainous and barren, for it is largely from decomposing organic (vegetable) matter that the carbonic acid gas is derived, which is needed to dissolve out the lime from lime rock. Ground or spring water in the valleys and on the prairies is therefore likely to be hard.

Besides wasting soap—for before the soap will make a satisfactory lather with hard water enough soap must be used to decompose the lime and magnesium compounds which cause the hardness—hard water is somewhat irritating to the skin and causes much trouble in boilers. Soft water is preferable for cooking vegetables. Hardness is of no great importance from the sanitary viewpoint, except that it tends to discourage cleanliness, makes it so much harder to have a clean shirt or a clean skin. But nowadays there are very efficient and inexpensive automatic water softening outfits which take care of the problem in home, industrial plant or institution.

Hardness is not an objectionable feature in water for drinking purposes. If the water is pure (free from pollution) and satisfactory in taste, its hardness is possibly even a desirable feature, for according to modern studies of human nutrition the ordinary diet of American town and city dwellers is more often deficient in calcium (lime) than in any other chemical element (not excepting iron); the body can utilize the lime of drinking water if there is a shortage of lime in the food. An adult's body contains about three pounds of lime; a minimum daily ration of 10 to 15 grains of lime in the natural food form is essential to health.

An adult's body contains more than a hundred pounds of water; one in health requires an average daily ration of two quarts of drinking water besides something over one pint taken as a chemical constituent of solid foods.

A shortage in the daily calcium or lime ration is likely to entail serious impairment in health, but a surplus of calcium or lime, if such a thing could be, is of small consequence, so that no one need worry about drinking hard water if the water is free from pollution and tastes good.

Rain water is practically distilled water—water which has been evaporated to vapor and condensed—and wholesome for drinking, though flat in taste, like ordinary distilled water. The taste of water is naturally imparted by the mineral matter; a person accustomed to hard water finds soft water unsatisfactory. Travelers sometimes suffer temporary digestive disturbances from sudden change from hard to soft or from soft to hard water. This discomfort lasts a day or two, and is the only undesirable effect attributable to the drinking of hard water.

DONS GAIN LARGE BULL FOR MASCOT

Prepare to Return From Stockton With 'Montezuma, 101,' Real Spanish Animal; Carnival Boosted

Ten automobile loads of Obapesla went to Stockton today to appriso the natives of that region of the progressive spirit of the Eastbay cities and the wonders to be seen here during the celevration week beginning September 24.

The Dons also prepared to return from Stockton with a mascot, "Montezuma, 101," a real Spanish bull, the gift of the Stockton residents who are honorary members of the Dons of Peralta.

The automobiles carrying the local business men and their families to the county fair and horse show in Stockton were gaily decorated with the banners and pennants of the Dons. Each Don was dressed in the official garb of the order, including a Spanish sash, Obapesla necktie and the sombrero.

SEEK HONORARY MEMBERS.

A reception committee had been designated to greet the Oakland visitors by the Stockton residents. During the day Max Horwinski, president of the Dons, was scheduled to speak before a group of the Stockton business men and to explain the objects of the Eastbay festival association. In addition to securing a number of honorary members to assist in the missionary work of the Dons in the interior counties, the Dons expected the trip to result in a number of people from Stockton visiting Oakland during the carnival week next month.

To their growing list of accomplishments and possessions the Dons of Peralta now have added a brass band and a marching tune dedicated to themselves. The community band, comprising a hundred pieces, has been assembled by Don David C. Rosebrook, director of the Islam Temple Band, San Francisco. Rosebrook also is the composer of the march, which he calls "Obapesla." The band will have a prominent part in all of the activities of the Dons during the coming festival.

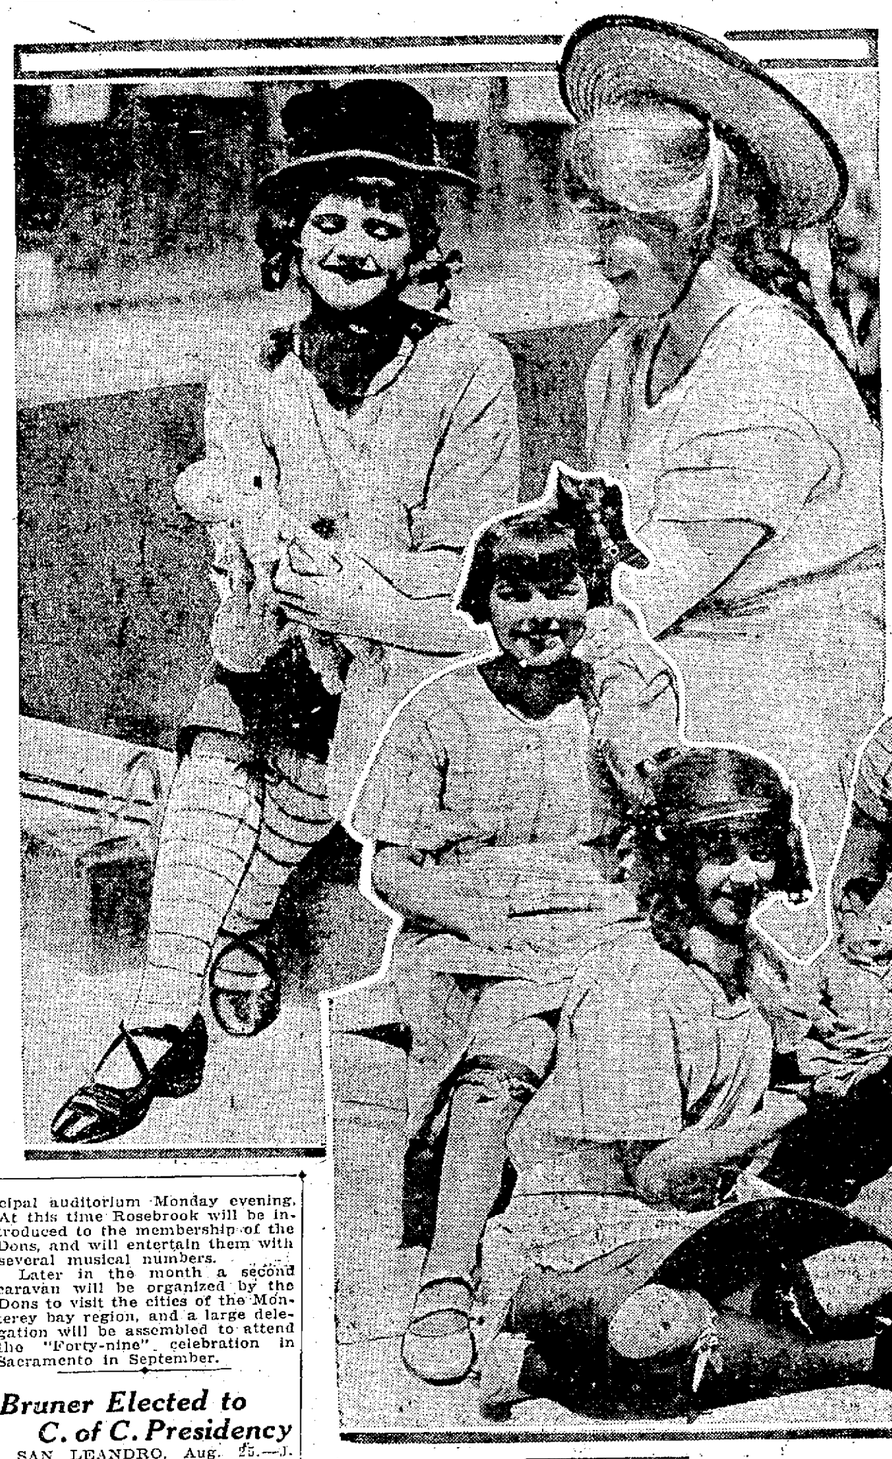

FOR FOURTH INITIATON.

About a thousand new members will be initiated into the festival organization at the fourth initiation jinks to be held in the municipal auditorium Monday evening. At this time Rosebrook will be introduced to the membership of the Dons, and will entertain them with several musical numbers.

Later in the month a second caravan will be organized by the Dons to visit the cities of the Monterey bay region, and a large delegation will be assembled to attend the "Forty-nine" celebration in Sacramento in September.

POLICEMAN HOFF QUITS UNDER FIRE

Officer Accused of Assault on Man Resigns as Chief Drew Indicates Dismissal Recommendation Is Ready

Policeman John E. Hoff today resigned from the department after Chief of Police James T. Drew had informed him that he would recommend his dismissal for attacking Charles Dionysisus. When Hoff was informed by the chief of his decision he handed in his resignation, which was accepted.

The beating of Dionysisus by the officer followed a collision Tuesday night between two automobiles, one driven by Harry Dionysisus, the son of the injured man, and the other by G. L. Kill, 2221 Harrington street. Dionysisus Sr. and Kill were discussing the accident when Hoff, who was in civilian clothes, drove up in an automobile and inquired about the accident. According to Chief Drew, Hoff told Dionysisus to beat it; that he was in the wrong. During an argument between Dionysisus and Hoff, it is alleged the officer struck Dionysisus four times in the face. He then showed his star and drove away. Through the license number on the car Dionysisus found out the name of the officer. He then filed charges against Hoff.

Hoff claims he struck in self-defense.

House Shaved by City To Make It Fit Site

A major shaving operation, leaving the whole side of a house exposed to the public view, was performed by city workmen today upon a two-story frame building at Seventeenth and Webster streets, where four feet were clipped off where they intruded upon the city's property line.

Mrs. M. Schobin, owner of the building, cruised up and down in an automobile, watching lest the city employees encroach one inch beyond their legal four feet.

The slicing of the house began early this morning, after some months of negotiation by the city and the owner. It was definitely found that the house, when originally built, was four feet upon the public sidewalk line. It was alleged by City Attorney Leon Gray that a straight sidewalk could not be laid as long as that house encroached on the line. Gray asked the owner to pull back the house, but it is alleged that nothing was done about it, and so street department workmen started the shave.

The shaving operation, which worked along the whole side of the house simultaneously, took in five rooms, two closets and a wardrobe. A bath tub, a bureau, two water faucets, a clothes wringer and a kit of tools used by a Chinese herb doctor were also on the boundary line, but were moved back.

The Chinese herb doctor moved away.

The gaping wound, according to the owner, will be patched up immediately and what is left of the house will continue business at the old stand.

CHARGES OF BALL HEARD BY JURORS

Members of the grand jury today are planning for a further hearing of the charges of Wilfred A. Ball, former chief of construction for the Oakland board of education, involving several contractors. Ball was a witness before the inquisitorial body yesterday afternoon, the entire session being given over to a hearing of his story.

Ball's charges, which were brought to the attention of the jury through a resolution by the Golden Gate Improvement association, are that certain contractors substituted inferior materials in certain Oakland school buildings and neglected to make due allowance to the city.

The jury will meet against next Friday.

San Leandrans At Yacht Club Tonight

SAN LEANDRO, Aug. 25.—One hundred and fifty members of the San Leandro Kiwanis club, their wives and guests, will attend the first ladies' night of the club to be held this evening at the Encinal clubhouse in Alameda. The party will leave in an auto caravan of about 50 machines and will make the trip to the clubhouse in a body.

It was at first believed that the party would number 100 but, according to Lloyd Stagner, secretary of the club and in charge of the evening, the estimate this morning jumped to 150, with a possibility of its becoming even larger. The club, Stagner said, will attend the function practically 100 per cent strong.

Canoe and boating races, canoe tilting contests, swimming races, bowling, handball, cards and other amusements have been prepared. Later in the evening a dance will be given in the clubhouse, and the evening will be completed with a supper party.

Bruner Elected to C. of C. Presidency

SAN LEANDRO, Aug. 25.—J. Allison Bruner, for several years city attorney, has been elected to succeed Judge W. J. Gannon as president of the San Leandro chamber of commerce. This announcement was made today by U. S. Ackles, secretary of the chamber, following a special meeting of the board of directors.

The originally planned program of the chamber, it was announced today, will be continued without break.

Henry Hale, a local banker, was elected treasurer of the board to fill the vacancy left by Bruner's promotion to the presidency.

High School Celebrates Old Clothes Day

BERKELEY, Aug. 25. — The one day in the year when jazz was not frowned upon occurred yesterday at Berkeley High school, when "Old Clother Day" was celebrated.

Hundreds of high school students, clad in grotesque attire, danced in the street in front of the main high school building while the school orchestra played syncopated melodies. Teachers at the school entered into the spirit of the day and, claid in old attire, danced and joined in the merriment.

Planned as a welcome to the new students at the school, the traditional "Old Clothes Day" was marked by many innovations yesterday. Classes were dismissed at 1 o'clock, after which an assembly devoted to merry-making was held in the auditorium. Students then gathered on the athletic field and the "scrub" tie-up, in which incoming students participated, was held while a scrimmage ball game and sack races were also on the program.

Girls at the school appeared with their hair in curls or bows tied on their bobbed heads, some in knee socks and others in bloomers, while the boys vied for honors in rags and tatters and other humorous makeup. Dolls, teddy bears, all-day suckers, sunshades and other embellishments added to the fun of the day.

Among the students who wore especially striking attire were Eileen McCall, Lila Nelson, Kathleen Armitage, Mary Avery, Marian Mortimer, Frances Warnecke, Lilian Bleynagel, Josephine Martin, Elsie Worthy, Myrle Roberts, Alice Hutchison, Joean Burt, Virginia Boyd, MaBelle Garwood, Edith Thompson, Katherine McNeely, Margaret Merrill, Marian Nelson, Doris Mangels and Bernice Boelter.

Suburb's Water Famine Relieved

The water famine that has been suffered by the 125 families living in Columbian Park, a suburb of Oakland, has been relieved, the water company today notified the state railroad commission.

Residents of Columbian Park district have been without water all summer, due, it is alleged, to the real estate promoters failing to live up to a contract to provide the district with water.

Some time ago the people of the district made an urgent appeal to the railroad commission to get water in their tract. The railroad commission took up the matter with the East Bay Water company and today the commission was informed that the water company had completed two miles of main to the district

Chamber Unable to Finance Concerts

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.—The San Leandro chamber of commerce will not appropriate money for the continuance of band concerts here, it was announced today by U. S. Ackles, secretary to the chamber. Ackles declared that the chamber will render all possible aid to concerts, but an appropriation for them was not included in the budget.

Unless aid comes from some source within a week band concerts here will be discontinued with tonight's program, according to members of the band. It was rumored today that the Kiwanis club here may aid in financing the band.

BRITISH UNDERSELL AMERICANS ON THIS COAST

Commercial Bodies of Middle West Planning to Meet Situation.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(By Associated Press).—British exporters are selling goods on the Pacific coast at prices under those of American business men shipping from the middle west and eastern states, according to representatives of Missouri and Mississippi Valley commercial associations who met here to discuss what was termed a serious situation. The ability of the English exporters to reach the Pacific coast markets and undersell American firms of the middle west and east was made possible, J. P. Haynes, traffic director of the Chicago Association of Commerce declared by lower freight rates from Europe to the Pacific coast that it is possible for Chicago and east to obtain.

Those at the meeting agreed that the remedy necessary was to waive the long and short haul clause of the Interstate Commerce Commission's regulations to permit the railroads to reduce rates from Chicago and the central states to the Pacific coast without reducing the charges to the intermediate territory. It was explained that the railroads have asked for such action but that shipping interests in the intermediate country have opposed any reductions in transcontinental rates without similar cuts to the intermediate territory.

Japan Hard Hit By Chinese Boycott

TOKYO, Aug. 25.—(By The Associated Press.)—Japan's export trade to China has suffered enormously during the last few months owing to the Chinese boycott of Japanese goods. Steamship companies also have been hard hit.

Japanese merchants are up in arms, and resolution after resolution is being passed demanding that the government take some firm action to bring about a change. The foreign office, however, has found it impossible to do more than send ships to protect Japanese subjects and property and bring the matter before the Chinese government with a request that local officials take steps to put an end to this unfriendly attitude.

From the beginning of the year to the end of May Japan's export trade fell off by more than 20,-030,000 yen. Since then there has been no diminution of the boycott.

FORMER SAILING YARNS RECALLED BY TWO VISITORS

Two Wind-driven Craft in South Sea Trade Tie Up at Quay Wall.

A reminder of the old time sailing ship days was brought to the attention of the frequenters of the Oakland water front this week when two wind-driven craft made the port and tied up at the quay wall for the purpose of discharging South Sea island cargo. The first arrival was the Annie M. Campbell, operated by the Burns-Phillips company, which brought in 365 tons of odorous dried cocoanut meat from Kadweeng. The last arrival, which came sliding in alongside the wharf of the Howard Terminal yesterday, was the Lottie Bennett, operated by the same company. She was from Niuatobu, Tonga islands, and had aboard 500 tons of copra.

The Lottie Bennett is commanded by Captain Bennett and is a fine type of the schooner which operates out of this port in the lower South Sea island trade. A fleet of about a dozen vessels engage in this work of the sea and their cruising territory includes all the Pacific from Guam, the Philippine islands and the Straits Settlements to the Lower Archipelago southward. The little boats are the real hoboes of the Pacific sea lanes and wander into all of the out-of-the-way places, encountering all sorts of dangers from cannibals to shipwreck. Heavy storms and calms are considered a regular part of every voyage and, if a skipper makes port without having lost some of his sails or deck gear, his trip has been an exceptionally fine one.

Up to the time of the entry of the Shipping Board steamers into the copra-carrying trade, this work was nearly all done by the small sailing schooners. Their capacity averages from 700 to 1000 tons of cargo. Most of them operate out of Oakland.

Frank Lynch to Go on the Ways For Examination

Local Lumber Carrier Hit Yesterday by Japanese Freighter.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Aug. 24.—The coastwise motorship Frank Lynch, which was rammed off Point Reyes Wednesday by the Japanese steamer Kongosan Maru, is due here tomorrow, and upon arrival will undergo a survey by local underwriters to determine the extent of her damage. The motorship is believed to be only slightly damaged.

The Munson-McCormick Line freighter Munplace arrived from New York today heavily laden with east coast products on her first voyage in the intercoastal trade.

A continual upward trend in the movement of lumber is noticeable here since the clearing up of congestion over the wharves. For more than two months the wharves were piled high with lumber, causing a falling off in the trade.

The British freighter Canadian Volunteer arrived today from Ocean Fals, B. C., with one of the largest shipments of newsprint paper ever consigned to this port.

Trying to Float Hulk of Steamer

ASTORIA, Ore., Aug. 25.—Another attempt will be made today to float the after-end of the hulk of the wrecked British steamer Welsh Prince, which lies in the Columbia river off Altoona.

A few days ago the pumps were started to clear the hold and the water was lowered about seven feet, but the corners of the bulkhead began to crush and operations were stopped. These corners have now been strengthened with braces, one of the pumps which was brought here for repairs was taken back to the wreck yesterday. Everything is now said to be ready to begin pumping.

Coast Electrical Gains Beat World

SEATTLE, Aug. 25.—The electrical development of the Pacific Coast is the wonder of the world, according to Tracey E. Bibbins of San Francisco, president of the Pacific States Electric Company, who is visiting Seattle.

"In 1910 there were produced in the three states of Washington, Oregon and California 1,690,000,000 kilowatt hours of electric energy," Bibbins said. "In 1922 there has been developed and consumed in these three stats sighly ve 6,000,-000,000 kilowtt hours. No such record of increase in proportion to population can be found anywhere else on the face of the earth. Construction now in hand and projected will double the 1922 capacity by 1930."

WIDOWS GET EXEMPTION.

WINNEMUCCA, Nev., Aug. 25.—Fifty-seven widows, all property owners of Humboldt county, were each allowed $1000 exemption on their property assessments by the county commissioners here.

Detroit's City Owned Railway Shows Deficit

Change From Profit to Loss Report Declared Caused by Wage Increase.

DETROIT, Aug. 25.—A net operating loss of $20,000 for July is shown in the report of Detroit's municipally owned street railway system for that month. The loss, according to department of street railways, is due to increased operating costs, including the new wage scale recently granted platform men and which was made retroactive to July 1.

Without the sum represented in the wage increases, placed at $50,000 for the month, the system would have shown a net profit for July of $30,940,86, the report states. The net profit for July, 1922, was $100,-892.32. Street railway department officials pointed to the figures today as supporting their assertion that the recently announced increase in the rate of fare was necessitated chiefly by the wage award. The fare increase, it is estimated, will add approximately $2,000,000 to the annual revenue.

Attorney Pleads Poisoning of Dry Agents Is Proper

MARTINEZ, Aug. 25.—The unique defense that poisoning of prohibition agents with bootleg liquor, particularly on St. Patrick's Day, is justified is made in a demurrer filed by Attorney Will S. Robenson, of Richmond, to suit instituted by District Attorney A. B. Tinning by which the prosecutor seeks to close the East Richmond hotel for one year under the abatement provisions of the Volstead Act.

Robenson's demurrer, solely an arraignment of dry sleuths, is as follows:

"That the complaint contains matter which, if true, constitutes legal justification and excuse of the offense charged, in this: That the type liquor alleged to have been sold, if of the type generally kept and sold since the National Prohibition Act of October 28, 1919, is universally known and designated as "poison" and that one is and should be justified in administering "poison" to most of the "dry" operators "gumshoeing" since October 28, 1919, that justification and excuse are further shown in this: that the alleged offense is alleged to have been committed on the 17th day of March, 1923, which said date is, of itself, sufficient justification for most any act.

SANTA ROSA TO ERECT MEMORIAL

SANTA ROSA, Aug. 25.—Decision to proceed with erection on the Sonoma county courthouse lawn of the proposed memorial to Sheriff James A. Petray and the two San Francisco detectives slain here in 1920 by alleged gangsters, was reached yesterday by the memorial committee.

The three men said to have done the shooting were lynched shortly after the killing, and objection had been made to placing the memorial on the courthouse lawn for fear the memorial would tend to commemorate the gangsters more than the dead sheriff and his assistants.

At yesterday's meeting of the memorial committee, Thomas Maclay, of Petaluma, a member of the committee, said he had received anonymous reports that if the memorial were erected as planned it would be dynamited. The committee, however, decided to go ahead with the memorial within ten days. The foundation already has been placed. Emmet Seawall, state supreme court justice, is chairman of the committee.

Pacific Eggs for East's Breakfast

Four thousand boxes, each containing 30 dozen eggs, numbering in all 1,440,000 fresh eggs, were one of the items of cargo carried by the steamship Neponset, which transited the Panama Canal recently bound from the Pacific coast to the Atlantic seaboard ports. This is, according to the official figures of the Canal Zone, the largest shipment of eggs made by water over this route.

In addition to the fresh eggs the Neponset also carried 69 tons of frozen eggs, 70 tons of frozen poultry, 250 barrels of frozen berries and a large consignment of frozen reindeer meat and fish.

Three More Caught In El Cerrito Raids

MARTINEZ, Aug. 25.—El Cerrito yielded three more men to the county dry squad last night when the second raids of the week were staged in the west end county town. Those arrested were Frank Dallasey, William J. McLaughlin, and Gratano Rodoni. The latter two were charged with possession of liquor and Dallasey was charged with possession of a still.

L. A.-Taft Bus Fare Cut Is Authorized

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.—The Railroad commission yesterday authorized the Packard Stage line, Kern County Transportation company and Walter Boyd and Chris Mattly, co-partners, to place in effect joint one-way through fares between Los Angeles and Taft, via Bakersfield, at a rate of $6.60, which is 70 cents lower than the combined local fares heretofore in effect.

WILLIAMS LINE MAKES INCREASE IN ITS SERVICE

Will Provide Sailings Every Fourteen Days in Intercoastal Run.

The Williams Steamship Company will re-establish its intercoastal service with the sailing of the freighter Willpolo from Norfolk, Va., September 7, according to an announcement made by J. W. Chapman, Pacific Coast manager of the company, yesterday.

The reorganized service will provide a ship leaving both the Atlantic and the Pacific terminals every fourteen days. Ports of call will be New York, Norfolk, Baltimore, and Philadelphia on the Atlantic. On the Pacific Coast the steamers will call at Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, Seattle, Tacoma and Aberdeen.

Guerrero Loads Explosive Cargo

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Aug. 25.—The Mexican steamer Guerrero, which arrived today from San Francisco on the way to Corinto and other Mexican ports, was not allowed to enter the harbor here because of a large shipment of explosives she carried. Freight for delivery here was lightered while passengers boarding her were forced to resort to launches.

Tomorrow is expected to be one of the slowest in many months in the matter of arrivals, scarcely more than half a dozen vessels being due.

WITHIN the next fortnight the Greek Theater Players will present as an inter-season attraction two of their best known productions, according to word received from Sam Hume.

The plays are George Bernard Shaw's "Candida," which is to be revived and played for three performances on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 31 and September 1 and 2, and "Tea for Three," Roi Cooper Megrue's parlor comedy, which is to be presented on September 14, 15 and 17.

"Tea for Three," in which Arthur Byron starred in San Francisco, and Norman Hackett in Oakland, was presented as the last production of the summer session season, but was given only one presentation because of the death of President Harding. Hume will play the principal role.

TWENTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

The light opera season at the Grand Opera House will retire in favor of grand opera next week.

Reorganization of what was the Eastbay Opera Association's company is now being effected by San Franciscans and arrangements have been completed to open an engagement at the Capitol Theater across the bay under the sponsorship of opera lovers there.

Louis B. Jacobs, who originally organized the company for this city, will be replaced by Milton K. Smith, brother of the late Guy Smith, a well-known showman of this state, and himself well known in theater circles as a treasurer and road show and resident manager.

According to reports, the personnel of the company will be practically the same as here with some strengthening in the departments thought by the management to be weak. Jefferson de Angelis will be the principal comedian and will be in charge of the productions.

Tony Smythe Due Back At Fulton

When Winnie Baldwin opens her season at the Fulton Theater on Sunday, September 2, she will have as leading man an old-time favorite here who has been devoting his attention to dramatic stock in other climes for three or four seasons. The newcomer, who is an old-timer, is J. Anthony Smythe, who returns to the Fulton from the south.

Smythe was one of the most popular leading men hereabouts and appeared under the several managements of Harry Bishop, John J. MacArthur and George Ebey before he was engaged by Thomas Wilkes for a series of seasons at the Wilkes theaters throughout the Weest.

FORTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

There are three minstrel companies now playing in San Francisco, at Baldwin's, Emerson's and the Vienna Gardens.

More recently Smythe has been playing in Pasadena with Jane Urban at the Raymond Players and just before coming here he fulfilled an engagement in pictures. He is looked upon by the Fulton as a valuable as a valuable acquisition because of the fact that his style of playing is well adapted to Miss Baldwin's.

In "Spite Corner," the opening play, Smythe will have a role much to his liking in young John Lattimer, the lad who leaves Elizabeth waiting while he goes to the city to make his fortune and then returns to ask her nonchalantly and casually if she is married yet. Of course he wakes up finally and the Frank Craven version of the war of the Montagues and the Capulets is brought to a happier ending than Shakespeare saw fit to do with "Romeo and Juliet."

EXITS AND ENTRANCES

Not to be outdone in uniqueness by "The Fool," the producers of "The Bat" have arranged for a performance of that penny-thriller by a cast made up of full-blooded Indians.

* * *

Incidentally, Wagenhals and Kemper proudly announce that they have insured their touring production for this year for $100,000. Whether or not this insurance protects them against loss by scenery delays is not mentioned in the notices.

* * *

New York papers carry an item that "Half a Chance," a new play by Blanche Upright, author of "The Valley of Content," will be presented at the Alcazar with Belle Bennett.

* * *

Samuel Shipman has perpetrated another happily titled play, "The Crooked Squire," which will open in Stamford on September 7.

Now we know why William A. Brady had Frank Craven's "Too Many Cooks" reduced ot musical comedy terms after years of success as a comedy drama. It seems that in 1911 Craven bet Brady $50 that he could write a drama. Brady contended that if he did someone would have to prepare music for it. Others failing, Brady undertook the job himself.

John Aubert Cook, press agent of the Fox-Oakland, who was accused of deserting the sword for the underwood after winning the war, calls us quite perturbed. "You have erred as usual and in your customary careless manner," screams this soldierly peddler of theatrical wares via the telephone. "Others concerned in the winning of that there war were T. A. Goldstein (who press agents the American theater) and John Pershing. Unless you retract we will invoke the recall, the grand jury or something."

Ernest Young was just in to announce that he and Joe Kemper have apparently hit it off with Harris & Ackerman. These are the two boys to selected to replace Jack Russell at the Century during his three weeks' vacation. Their work pleased the management and so after four weeks in vaudeville they will be prsented with a supporting company and a theater by the circuit manager.

Enlarging Business Noted, Says Dun's

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Dun's today says:

"There is still a conspicuous lack of uniformity to reports from commercial centers, but more definite indications of enlarging business are noted in some quarters. With the advance toward autumn, increasing interest in prospective future requirements is being shown in different channels, and there is expectation of a more general revival of activities after the present seasonal restraints have been removed. Where actual gain in buying has developed, as in some divisions of the textile trade, prices are firmer and the excess of declines in Dun's list of wholesale quotations has narrowed appreciable during recent weeks. Changes in working hours are becoming a factor in the price movement in the steel industry, tending to steady some markets, and the rise in prices of grain has been further extended.

7M MEDICAL. 7M MEDICAL.

To Be a Leading Herbalist

one must satisfy the following requirements:
FIRST—He must prove his ability by relieving sufferers.
SECOND—He must have a liberal education.
THIRD—He must be honest and of good character.
FOURTH—He must write a master treatise in regard to Herbal Science.
FIFTH—He must make his work so noteworthy that it will result in feature articles in the newspapers.
Y. L. Chan long ago satisfied all of the above principles and is NOW qualified as "America's Leading Herbalist." Moreover, he speaks the English language fluently which is one of the many reasons why he meets with such consistent success in—treating Americans.

GIVES FONG WAN HERBS CREDIT FOR HIS LIFE

Willits, Cal.
To Whom It May Concern:
It affords me much pleasure to express my approval of the FONG WAN HERB CO. I suffered from liver and stomach troubles for twenty years. After X-ray and other examinations, medical physicians pronounced my case a surgical one. They declared that no treatment could reach the seat of my trouble. They said that the operation would consist of removing a duodenal ulcer, my appendix and my gall bladder; also that there would have to be a pyloric operation.
Dreading the operating table, I took up treatment with the FONG WAN HERB CO. of 548 Eighth st., Oakland. At that time I weighed but 126 pounds, my normal weight being 170 pounds. My condition in general was very weak.
After three months' use of the herbs, I went to work handling lumber, ten hours each day. Have now held the job fourteen months and have not lost a day on account of my old trouble. It is the first time I have been able to go longer than three months in twenty years without being sick in bed. I feel that I can give the FONG WAN HERB TREATMENT credit for my life. My present weight is 160 pounds.
I beg of those who have serious or minor organic troubles that are causing them disability or weakness, to consult the FONG WAN HERBALIST, whom I believe to be honest and perfectly capable of doing what he says he can do.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN
I take this method of expressing my sentiments of appreciation to Dr. Wong Him for the wonderful cures he has effected in cases where several members of my family, including myself, were afflicted with various maladies.
I also desire to be the means of guiding anyone who is in need of medical advice, as he will find Dr. Wong Him to be a thoroughly reliable health specialist and absolutely conscientious. Through an occurrence experienced by a member of my family I can, with the greatest regard for sincerity, state that after a consultation, unless Dr. Wong Him is convinced that his herbs will effect a complete cure, he will under no circumstances accept the case.

FILM STARS ARE GIVEN WELCOME ON ARRIVAL HERE

Delegation Captained by Tom Mix Comes to Oakland for Fox Theater Opening.

The heroes and heroines of the land of make-believe arrived in Oakland to-day from the sets of Hollywood, captained by Tom Mix, the world's most picturesque rough rider. They came to be present at the dedication of Oakland's new playhouse, the Fox-Oakland Theater.

At First and Broadway station the motion picture actors and actresses were welcomed by a crowd numbering several thousand persons, including a contingent of some three hundred Dons of Peralta, and a band. As Mix stepped from the train, waving his sombrero, he was cheered enthusiastically, especially by the younger generation, whose own particular hero he has become on account of his dare-devil horsemanship and smiling personality.

With the party were also several famous actresses, including Carmel Myers, Claire Windsor, Mrs. Mix, Mae Busch, and Dorothy Wallace. Larry Semon, of the funny antics, was also there, as were Lew Cody, Jackie Saunders, Ruth Clifford, Bessie Loce, Eileen Sedgwick, Lilyon Tashman, Edmund Lowe, Marguerite Clayton and Kay Riddell.

Before forming into line of parade, an impromptu reception was held by the Dons of Peralta, and Tom Mix was presented with a Don's hat by Don Max Horwinskie and Don Lee Bertillion. The actor subsequently wore the headgear of the Dons throughout the day.

As the parade marched from the station to the Hotel Oakland, it was preceded by a band and by an automobile in which were seated Mayor John L. Davie and Commissioners Carter and Moorehead.

GIRL CAUGHT IN LIVE WIRE NET, BADLY BURNED

Dorothy Dionysius Seriously Injured While Playing Game.

A 12-year-old girl's desire to play "follow the leader" with a boy companion led her to a cot in Providence hospital, where she is hovering between life and death today with burns received from high voltage wires on a telephone pole.

The child, Dorothy Dionysius of 3025 Gallindo street, was bound by the rules of the game to follow Roderick Murray, 15, of 3006 Gallindo street, wherever he went. Roderick climbed a tree and Dorothy followed. Roderick climbed out one of the higher branches to a telephone pole, which the tree partially encircled, wrapped his legs about it, and slid down. Dorothy, following suit, became tangled in the wires near the top of the pole used for carrying high voltage current. She screamed as the wires burned her about the face, neck and shoulders.

Neighbors, who came hurrying into the street at the sound of the child's cries, sent for the fire department to extricate her. The first company that responded found its ladders too short to reach her, and a hook and ladder company was sent for. While hundreds of residents of the neighborhood stood in the street watching the child being disentangled from the high powered wires and carried down to safety.

At Providence hospital today it was announced that although Dorothy is in a critical condition, she is conscious and may recover.

Schools of Salmon Showing Increase

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 25.—The runs of the principal kinds of salmon are showing an increase this season, according to Ernest A. Seaborg, head of the Washington State Department of Fisheries.

"This has been the best season for spring salmon for many years," Seaborg said. "The sockeye run was a little better than that four years ago, and the prospects are that the humpback run will be larger than usual."

Seaborg attributed increase of humpbacks largely to te ndays suspension of fishing at the height of the season two years ago. Another such closed period will occur September 6 to 15.

Kahn Opposes Sale Of Presidio Lands

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25. — Congressman Julius Kahn is in receipt of a letter from Secretary of War John W. Weeks conveying the information that the U. S. government is considering the sale of a portion of the Presidio "not necessary for military purposes." The money realized from such a sale would be used for army construction work.

The portion of the Presidio referred to is the Presidio golf links. Congressman Kahn is opposed to the idea, stating that the time may come when every available square foot of ground will be required in the training of soldiers.

RAISE IN FARES NOT ASKED FOR EASTBAY REGION

Traction Company Will Not Seek Increase Despite Higher Salaries.

Despite the recent general salary increase to platform men, an expenditure of over $2,000,000 for new equipment and completion of track reconstruction and paving amounting to a half million dollars, the Oakland Traction company has no intention of applying for an increase in local street car fares, it was declared today by officials of the company in answer to rumors that a fare increase would be sought.

"Granting a salary increase to platform men totalling $600,000 yearly, Detroit's municipally owned street car system has just announced an increase in car fares to 6 cents, with an additional charge of 1 cent for transfer privilege, effective September 1," declared local traction company officials.

Detroit car fares were put on a straight 5 cent basis when the city took over the car lines, but not only have the fares been increased above 6 cents, but the Detroit city council has just passed an ordinance relieving the street car system from paving between the tracks, according to George H. Harris, assistant general manager of the local traction company.

Track reconstruction and paving along Telegraph avenue from Fifty-fourth street in Oakland to Dwight way, Berkeley, is nearing completion, Harris declared. This work is costing the company $230,000. The Richmond subway was recently completed at a cost of $25,000. The company is starting the $39,000 job on Oxford street opposite the university grounds in Berkeley. Trackage and paving improvements along North Grove street in Berkeley have been finished up at a cost of $39,000 and considerable new work is contemplated in Oakland.

Truce Suggested In Kerr Divorce "To Save Others"

SAN FRANCISCO, August 25. —As a sub-climax in the divorce proceedings of Mrs. Lenora Kerr against Andrew L. Kerr, wealthy manufacturer of this city, Judge James M. Troutt has suggested a truce for the purpose of allowing the contending parties to alter their testimony so as not to "injure and cause to suffer many other men and women drawn into the case."

Judge Troutt called a conference of the attorneys in the case yesterday afternoon. His suggestion was in effect that the Kerrs agree to discontinue airing some of their charges against each other.

"When I informed my client, Mrs. Kerr, what the court had said, she remarked that it was 'very interesting,'" said Timothy Healy. "Just what her conclusion may be I am not at liberty to disclose just now, but if the judge's thought was followed in the case we might be able to adjust some of the difficulties out of court."

Lewis T. Byington, counsel for Kerr, said that his client had arrived at no definite conclusion, but intimated it was possible that some of Kerr's charges in his cross-complaint might be modified.

SUPPORTERS OF SENATOR JOHNSON HOLD MEETING

Start Movement to Return Johnson Legislature Two Years Hence.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25. — The challenge issued by Hiram Johnson; U. S. Senator from California, to his opponents for a contest for control of the state, was echoed here today by a group of supporters of Johnson, who gathered with the expressed intention of starting a movement to return a "Johnson legislature" to Sacramento two years hence.

The meeting was called by state senators and representatives who are opponents of Governor Friend W. Richardson.

Will C. Wood, state superintendent of schools, who has been leading the fight on Governor Richardson; Sim Lubin of Sacramento; Mark Keppel, superintendent of Los Angeles schools; Francis Heney, Los Angeles attorney, and Lieutenant Governor C. C. Young are among the leading Johnson supporters who are expected to attend the meeting.

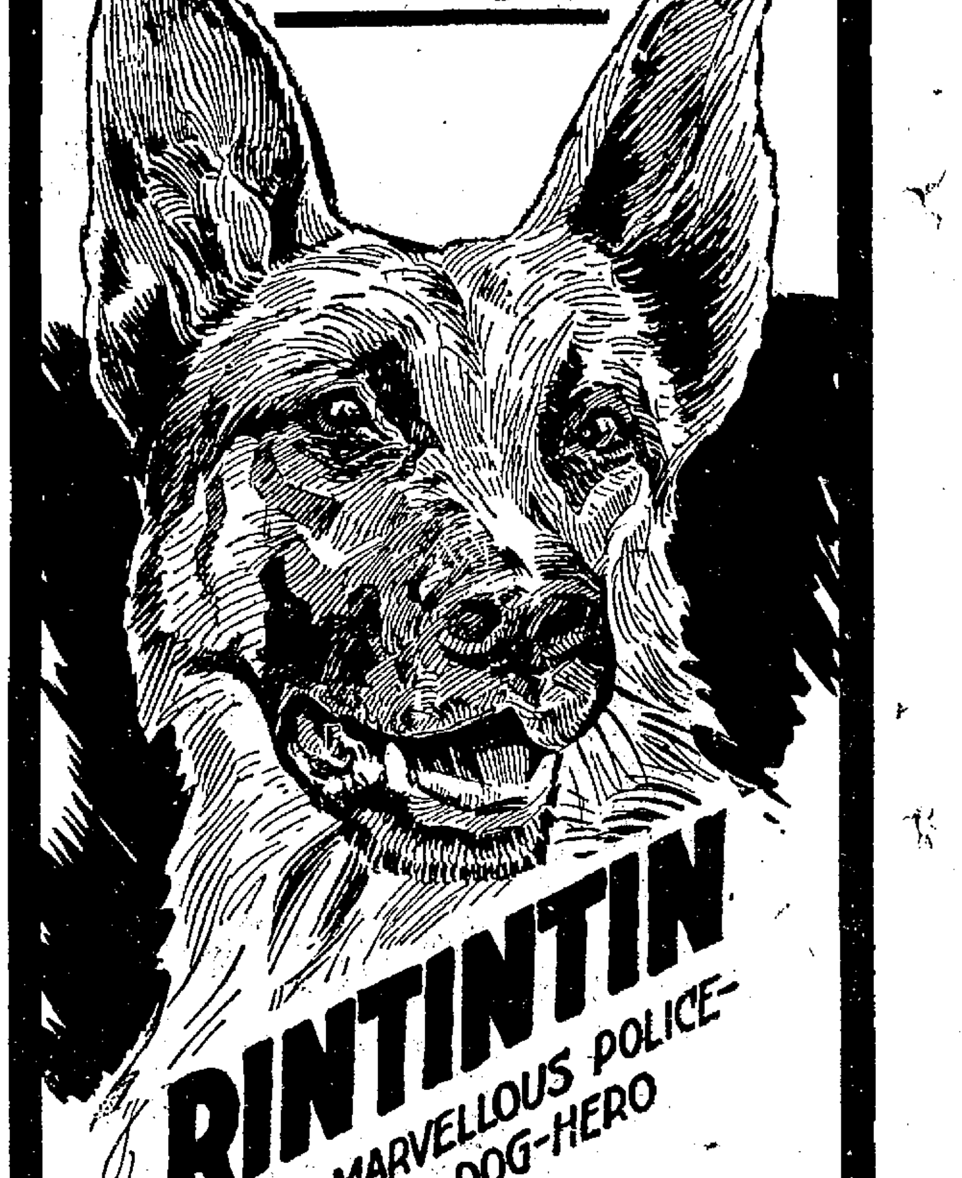

It was stated that the meeting also was being held to crystallize Johnson sentiment so as to be "ready for the fight" when Johnson, who is to leave Washington for San Francisco shortly, shall arrive on the scene.

THOUGHT BACK WOULD BREAK

Nothing Helped until She Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"When my baby was born," says Mrs. Posluszny, 106 High Street, Bay City, Michigan, "I got up too soon. It made me so sick that I was tired of living and the weakness run me down something awful. I could not get up out of bed mornings on account of my back; I thought it would break in two, and if I started to do any work I would have to lie down. I do not believe that any woman ever suffered worse than I did. I spent lots of money, but nothing helped me until I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I felt a whole lot better after the first bottle, and I am still taking it for I am sure it is what has put me on my feet."

If you are suffering from a displacement, irregularities, backache, nervousness, sideache or any other form of female weakness you should write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass, for Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women." It will be sent you free upon request. This book contains valuable information.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.—As a result of an automobile accident which occurred near Santa Margarita yesterday afternoon, Miss Eleanor Spreckels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Spreckels, is suffering from painful injuries today. The accident was a collision between Miss Spreckels' car and a wagon on the State highway. Miss Spreckels was accompanied by her maid at the time.

In press despatches received here, it was stated that Miss Spreckels had been cut about the face by broken glass, that the maid had suffered and bruises and that the driver of the wagon had been injured. It was said that none of the three was hurt seriously.

Miss Spreckels is prominent in San Francisco's younger social set. She made her debut last year when her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Jackling, gave a ball in her honor. She played a leading role last January in a production given at the French theater on Washington street.

Wanted—Five women to complete the community class in Home Care of the Sick which is being conducted every Monday and Wednesday evening in Oakland Technical high school under the joint auspices of the board of education and local chapter of American Red Cross.

Some twenty lessons, including lectures, demonstration and practice are included in the course, which brings a certificate upon successful completion and which frequently leads to self-support. The housewife, motorist, young woman in business and mother find an opportunity to acquaint themselves with the principles of caring for the sick in that time before the physician is summoned, or during convalescence of a patient in the practical program which is presented.

A second course in first aid will follow the completion of the present course.

The community class meets in Room 228, Oakland Technical High School, Mondays and Wednesdays at 7:15 p. m. Registration may be made at this time.

Argument on Razors Results in Wounds

Robert Douglas and Herbert Loud, employed on a Southern Pacific dining car, were regaling themselves last evening with the virtues of the different makes of razors as the train on which they were riding was speeding into Oakland.

Douglas exhibited a razor which he averred was unsurpassed in shaving qualities and general history. Loud was not inclined to agree with him.

When the train arrived in Oakland, Douglas was turned over to the police and Loud was taken to the Emergency hospital, where he was treated for cuts on the hands and his left side.

VOTING MACHINE LAW ATTACKED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.—Action to test the validity of the voting machine law enacted by the 1923 legislature was begun in the state supreme court yesterday when Thomas A. F. Ashe, a taxpayer, filed a petition directed aainst Registrar J. H. Zemansky and the San Francisco board of election commissioners.

Ashe seeks a rit of mandate to compel the respondents to prephre for the coming municipal election a printed ballot showing spaces for the designation of first, second and third choice for voters. The petitioner argues that the voting machines are NOT so constructed and cannot be practicably constructed so as to permit their use in voting for first, second and third choice as required by the San Francisco charter.

The petition avers the legislative act permitting the use of machines and declaring that this act supersedes provisions of city charters in conflict therewith, is void under the state constitution which gives cities the express po er to provi e for a mode and manner of electing municipal officers.

Now Building the Great Carquinez Bridge

While the Bridge is being built—

The shortest and easiest route North is via Rodeo-Vallejo ferry, a six minute trip, operating every twenty minutes. For Marin county and Redwood Highway take Golden Gate Ferry foot of Hyde street, San Francisco, to Sausalito. Fast boats every half hour on week days; every twenty minutes on Saturdays, Sundays and Holidays.

Engineers in charge of construction of Carquinez Bridge have just completed their diamond drillings at the site of Pier No. 3, near the center of the channel, and within four weeks will begin the sinking of a huge cofferdam at this point.

Work on Pier No. 1 is progressing rapidly, and the working force on the bridge will be increased to 500 men within ninety days.

It is estimated that the bridge will have a capacity of about 10,000,000 automobiles annually. At the present time the Rodeo-Vallejo ferries are handling approximately 500,000 motor cars. There can be no question as to the great need the Carquinez Bridge will fill.
